Viking Cagers Settle For Runner-up Trophy Ballot Box Project Winners Announced

Congratulations to the Villa Angela-St. Joseph High School boys basketball team for making it to the state tournament for the fourth consecutive year - the only school in OHSAA history to accomplish this feat. Along with this honor, the team brought the state runner-up trophy back to East 185th and Lakeshore.

by John Sheridan

In sports, it often doesn't pay to put much stock in so-called "omens." During the Ohio high school regional basketball playoffs, one Villa Angela-St. Joseph fan noticed that the state Division III championship game was slated for March 19-the Feast of St. Joseph. ¢couldn't it be neat if the St. Joe team won a state title on St. Joseph's Day?"the fan thought. "Perhaps it's a good omen. " well, that turned out to be wishful thinking. Coach Babe Kwasniak's Vikings did make it to the final game in Columbus, but their rather remarkable season came to an end with a 66-44 loss to Lima Central Catholic-the same team they had beaten a year earlier to claim VASJ's sixth state basketball crown. In fact, it was the third year in row that these two squads met in the championship finals. Almost incredibly, it marked the fourth straight appearance in a state championship game for this year's Vikings seniors-first-team All-Ohio guard Sherman Dean III, Kevin Roberts, Jacob Stauffer, Anthony Turk and Phillip Bessick.

Certainly, they'd hoped to end their high school careers on a final victory note. But it wasn't to be. And, understandably, they and their teammates seemed less than jubilant in settling for the runner-up trophy on Ohio State's Schottenstein Center court.

Nonetheless, the 2016 VASJ squad far exceeded anyone's expectations-especially considering that all five starters on the 2015 championship team had graduated. Starting from scratch, Coach Kwasniak's cagers fashioned a very memorable tournament run. And watch out for them again next year. The leading scorer for the Vikings in the state title game was sophomore guard Jerry Higgins, whose shot at the halftime buzzer narrowed Lima Central's lead to 27-26. Higgins finished the game with 15 points. Among the others expected to return next season are 6-7 freshman Alonzo Gafney, 6-2 junior Noah Newton, and 6-3 junior Dan McGarry who made a significant contribution under the basket this season.

Oliver H. Perry School has won equipment that will allow students to collect weather data and learn about forces at work in the atmosphere.

Perry was one of 10 CMSD K-8 schools to win 6250 Davis Vantage Vue wireless weather stations in WKYC-TV's Weather Warriors contest. The other schools were Almira, Campus International, Charles Dickens, Clara E. Westropp, Denison, Iowa-Maple, Luis Muñoz Marin, Riverside and Willson.

The schools were picked after submitting videos based on the theme: "We are the Weather Warriors." To view the videos, go to http://bit.ly/1Zs6sxb

At Oliver H. Perry, homerooms will take turns each week collecting and analyzing weather data and presenting findings to the rest of the student body during the school's Friday morning meetings. The benefits will extend beyond science, Principal Anne Priemer said.

"Students in math class frequently ask, 'Why do we have to learn how to do this?' " she said. "The station will give students, as part of their math curriculum, a real-world authentic way to collect, chart and analyze data."

Besides trying their hands at weather forecasts, students will get to work one on one with members of the WKYC weather team, including chief meteorologist Betsy Kling and meteorologist Gregg Dee. They will visit the WKYC studio and receive visits from the station's Weather Advance Mobile Unit.

for college test preparation, summer internships, scholarships and an investment club.

Students at the all-male high school cheered enthusiastically when the announcement was made Monday at a regular school assembly, better known as the morning meeting. It is the largest single donation the school has ever received.

"It creates opportunities for each of you to thrive on your own terms," said Christopher M. Gorman, president of Key Corporate Bank, which focuses mostly on corporations and services that include capital market investments, mergers and acquisitions. "We can't wait to see where this investment takes us all."

The grant was made through the Key-Bank Foundation, which Gorman serves as president. The award, spanning five years, will fund:

• tutoring for juniors and seniors to improve scores on the ACT and SAT collegeadmissions tests;

writing;

• $1,000 scholarships for up to 10 seniors a year to help fill in gaps in their education funding:

• and operation of an investment club and instruction in money management for ninth- and 10th-graders.

Ted Ginn Sr., the school's executive director and founder, said the grant "helps us in the areas we need help in." He thanked KeyBank for "believing in our students."

Ginn Academy, which has received national attention, (read about Ginn Academy in The New York Times and The Washington Post) has a four-year graduation rate of 84.1 percent and five-year graduation rate of 94.4 percent, according to its most recent state report card. Both are well above the District's record 66.1 percent. David Reynolds, senior sales leader for Key Private Bank, is a member of the Ginn Academy board of trustees and will continue to serve as a liaison with the school.

SPRING IS HERE, FINALLY !!! With ies of Ohio flowers most of them of the "orange barrel variety". On that note - construction will begin shortly on the Veteran's Park at East 174th Street and Lakeshore Boulevard in preparation of the dedication of the park for June 12, 2016. Construction is also well underway on the new multimillion dollar community center at the Salvation Army at 17625 Grovewood Avenue. The construction on a new I-90 Pedestrian Bridge, which had been taken out by a truck three years ago, will begin this summer. Then there is the St Clair Avenue Corridor project for which we will be having the second round of community meetings coming up in April / May.

The City Administration is working on resurfacing lists and we will know shortly about which streets will be slated for resurfacing. Eddy Road and East 152 Street are in the pipeline already; I will keep you informed as these projects move forward.

However, the big announcement is by the Cleveland Clinic that they are proposing to move 45 beds of their in-patient rehab unit out of Euclid Hospital to a new Beachwood facility. This should not come as a great shock in light of what Cleveland Clinic Leadership did to Huron Road Hospital in East Cleveland and are presently attempting to do at Lakewood Hospital. We are hearing that this proposed move could affect at least 60 employees, many of whom live in or near the City of Euclid or on the northeast side of the City of Cleveland. The bigger question is - what does this mean for the long term future of Euclid Hospital? The Clinic has embarked upon a process of closing old inner ring suburban hospitals

Artist Spotlight

By Joe Barbaree

Margaret Craig is a longtime resident of North Collinwood and storyteller working to better connect arts with the wider community.

A lifetime Cleveland resident and 25 year community member of North Collinwood, Craig employs storytelling to engage with her fellow residents. She uses singing, acting, performance - just about any medium - to engage with other community members. She's even a professional clown.

Exposing children to art is her passion, especially the connection of the spoken word with the written word. It's easy to see the roots of this dedication in both her personal and professional background.

Craig taught preschool for 20 years before working for the Salvation Army, Northeast Shores Development Corporation and even Waterloo Arts (then Arts Collinwood). She's currently the Learning Zone Director at the Salvation Army on Grovewood Avenue, where she is in charge of after school programming. To all the kids, she's "Ms. Margaret."

Throughout her work, Craig engages the community and especially younger generations. She loves telling stories to children and involving them in the creative process. Folk stories are incredibly important to her; often these are tales of morality. One of her favorites is the African folk tale, The Baby Leopard.

She tells stories at schools, churches, libraries, wherever they are needed - all in addition to her day job.

Now Craig is taking her love of youth engagement and storytelling to an even broader group of the community. Her "Neighborhood Arts Ambassadors" program - one of nine winning Ballot Box projects - is a summer internship for youth ages 13-16. Twelve Ambassadors will be selected and become "bridges" between the extensive arts programming in North Collinwood and community members who are not well connected to this work.

Ambassadors will learn about all the arts businesses, organizations, programs and individual artists during June's Walk All Over

Waterloo. They'll then take this knowledge and design their own arts-based programming to engage other community members about the arts assets in North Collinwood. The youth will get to decide how exactly they engage the community as Arts Ambassadors, but Craig envisions a combination of spoken word, performance art, photography

In addition to her Ballot Box participation, Craig is a member of the committee for the new O.H. Perry Elementary School construction and a member of the E. 156th Street Block Club. Find out more about her Ballot Box project online and keep an eye out for Arts Ambassadors in the neighborhood this summer.

Spring into the 10th Annual Scoop on Summer

The Scoop on Summer events, programs, arts & eats all around Collinwood

by Erin Rande

Spring has just arrived, but some folks in Collinwood are already thinking ahead to summer and the 10th annual edition of the Scoop on Summer-a community arts project that rounds up all the events, programs, arts and eats in and around this gritty little slice of heaven. The 2016 Scoop will feature the Eerie d'Eries, the creepy little darlings spawned from artist Angela Oster's dark and fertile imagination, who have graced the last two editions. New this year, the Scoop's web edition will offer social media and online calendar integration, allowing save and share out events of i est.

Volunteers will spend this month spreading the word, collecting event and program submissions, updating community resources and restaurant listings, and soliciting sponsorships from the generous individuals, associations, nonprofits and institutions who love Collinwood.

Early May is the time to edit the listings, put finishing touches on the design, and get the Scoop to print so the more than 15,000 copies can get distributed through more than 16 neighborhood schools before summer break.

Now is the time to get in on the Scoop. Events and youth program listings should be submitted online via the website, www. scooponsummer.org. Eateries should verify their information on the website, and submit any changes by email, scooponsummer@gmail.com. Volunteers are needed to edit and proofread listings.

Sponsorship opportunities include $500 Presenting Sponsors, $250 Commodore Sponsors, and $100 Captain Sponsors, and akers from $1-$99 Contribution are tax deductible through the project's fiscal agent, Neighborhood Leadership Institute

If you have questions about where your content belongs, or want to volunteer to edit, proofread, help with distribution, or support the Scoop as a sponsor, please touch base with project organizer Erin Randel by phone at (216) 235-5009 or email, scooponsummer@gmail.com. The deadline for all submissions is May 1, 2016.

How would you spend $120,000 for arts programming in North Collinwood? Over 500 residents and employees in the neigh borhood voted on just that. Once the ballots were tallied, nine projects were funded. The Ballot Box Project kicked off on a sunny Friday in early March with Democracy on the Move, a parade that weaved throughout the residential streets where the projects will primarily take place. Thirty musicians and 40 artists and residents marched through the streets bringing people out of their homes to enjoy the show.

A young boy pointed toward the parade when one of the parade walkers handed him a flag with the Ballot Box logo. He and his dad smiled gleefully waving their flag as the parade continued past their home. Parents and children, seniors and singles came outside to enjoy the sights and sounds of democracy. This excitement was echoed through the neighborhood into the commercial district, with owners and shoppers taking leave of their business to check out the parade. The route concluded at the first polling site where inside the musicians circled up for a jam session with dancers showing off their best moves.

"The parade is the first time I felt the arts district connected with the neighborhood," said Linda, a longtime resident who was so pleased that she even joined the parade with her dog.

It felt like a party at each of the four voting locations. Each site was just as popular as the first. We needed bigger rooms and we ran out of voting booths. Artists on the ballot didn't miss a day of voting to promote their ideas, while people of all ages and backgrounds came out to vote on their favorite projects.

"I care more about this election than the real one," said one resident as she was checking in to get her ballot. "This vote will actually impact the community."

Voting began on Friday, March 4th at the Slovenian Workman's Home and continued through March 16th at Collinwood High School. Residents came out to vote in full force at the four public voting locations: Slovenian Workmen's Home, Collinwood Recreation Center, Salvation Army, and Euclid Beach Villas. Voting was brought to the youth at Collinwood High School, where over 100 students experienced voting for the first time. Many of the projects on the ballot were about activities for the vouth

The desire for The Ballot Box Project to continue in the future has been unanimous. Everyone was excited about the projects. Some residents came out to engage the arts for their first time. Several people registered to vote in the general election, and youth had their first real voting experience.

Plastic is machined and welded in a process similar to metal. Indelco hires skilled metal-industry welders and machinists then trains them on plastic techniques. Because the industry is young in the United States, since the 1960s, few trade schools teach plastic techniques, and most machinists are self-taught. The company has 20 employees in Euclid and 200 more at its corporate office and 14 other facilities.

Scholars Dance to Newton's Law of Motion

by Julia DiBaggio

Dancing Wheels Company and School, as part of Collinwood 2015, just completed their 10 week residency at O.H. Perry. The schools fifth grade class got to learn about Newton's Laws of Motion, incivility, and dance. The residency concluded with a performance for the school, teaching their fellow scholars about physics.

Dancing Wheels, a physically integrated dance company, unites the talents of dancers with and without disabilities. When the residency began, many of the students didn't understand physics, let alone physical integration. This changed when they were taught a dance routine explaining Newton's Laws of Motion, and how their everyday actions follow those laws. The youth received a powerful learning experience while keeping fit.

On Saturday, March 19th, families with pre-k children learned about robots at O.H. Perry. Not only did they discovered how robots can "clean the beach" they also saw some big robots up close. "Cosmo and the Robot," a children's book about a boy living in space with robots, was the inspiration for the day's activities.

The cold didn't stop anyone from going outside to see some robots up close. Children and parents alike were in awe as Tim Willis brought out the big robots and put them to action. The youth rode on the robot dog and discovered all their moving pieces. They even got to drive in a go-cart.

With a hex bug, craft supplies, and their imaginations, the kids created a machine that picked up cheerios, which emulated cleaning the beach. They also made their very own robot puppets. The event concluded with everyone enjoying lunch catered by Gus's Diner.

Lakeshore Intergenerational School Enrollment and Spring Concert coming up

by Courtney De Schepper

Lakeshore Intergenerational School has had a very busy couple of months and we are excited to welcome spring. At the end of February, our students presented a Black History museum walk. Each classroom selected a prominent African American to research and then decorated their door with facts and drawings to celebrate that person. Students, staff, parents and mentors "toured the museum" as they walked door to door to learn about these important figures in history.

LIS is currently enrolling for the 2016-2017 school year, with limited spots remaining. If you are interested in learning more about our educational model, please consider attending one of the following information sessions at the school located at 18025 Marcella Rd. Cleveland Ohio.

Wednesday, April 6th at 5:30 pm Wednesday, May 4th at 5:30 pm

We would also like to invite the community to our Spring Concert on Thursday, May 19th at 6pm. Our students are thrilled to be performing Disney's Lion King Kids. Please join us in our wonderful gymnasium to see this special performance.

For more information regarding enrollment, information sessions or our spring performance please contact our office at 216-586-3872.

Attendance Campaign On Pace To Hit Target

by CMSD News Bureau With one grading period left in the school year, CMSD's attendance campaign is on track to achieve its goal of reducing chronic absenteeism by 10 percent.

The "Get to School! You Can Make It!" campaign, launched in July, is designed to prevent students from missing 10 or more days in a school year. Students who had missed more than seven days by the end of the third quarter were considered to be at risk of exceeding the threshold.

When the third quarter ended this month, 53.2 percent of District students had missed seven or fewer days. That compares with an average of 47.3 percent at the same point the previous three years. In a district with 38,525 students, the difference is 2,273 more students

For CMSD to remain on a course to hit the target, more than 52.6 percent had to be on track in attendance at the end of the quarter.

Chronic absenteeism is a problem facing schools nationwide. Some districts define chronic as missing 20 or more days, but Chief Executive Officer Eric Gordon said CMSD wanted to set a more rigid standard.

The campaign message is plastered on billboards and yard signs and featured on radio spots. Volunteers have canvassed neighborhoods to talk to families, and they work phones on Thursday nights, calling parents to see if the District can assist with issues that make it difficult for their children to get to school.

The Cleveland Browns have served as a lead partner, with contributions that include having players visit schools and record videos and automated phone calls and break

Visitors Make the Rounds at Collinwood High

by CMSD News Bureau

Collinwood High School is giving the community an inside look at the school and its programs by arranging for groups to conduct "instructional rounds."

Guests representing various organizations observe classes and interact with students. Councilman Mike Polensek was among about a half-dozen people who visited March 22.

The goal is to provide a firsthand view of the school's transition into a New Tech Academy, part of national network that emphasizes hands-on, project-based learning. The guests also get to know the stu-

"Sometimes there's a disconnect between kids and the community. We want people to see them in their own context," said site coordinator Amy Carlson, who is no relation to Collinwood Principal Maria Carlson. As site coordinator, Amy Carlson organizes community "wraparound" services that assist students and families.

Among the stops March 22 was a 10thgrade Geo-Design class that combines geometry and interior design. Two teachers guided students as they worked on floor plans and learned about parallel line construction and perpendicular bisectors.

Groups represented on the rounds included the Cleveland Housing Network, Waterloo Arts, NewBridge Cleveland and the Cleveland Foundation. Kasey Morgan of the Cleveland Founda tion left an Advanced-Placement Literature course impressed by what she had seen.

"They're very engaged," said Morgan, who oversees the foundation's MyCom program for youths. "They're all on the same page."

Karen Troy is a housing counselor for the Cleveland Housing Network. The organization provides emergency "stabiliza tion" funds to help families of students at Collinwood and other wraparound schools with needs like rent and utilities.

Troy said the chance to observe classes was valuable.

"People from the outside might not know what's going on," she said. "I'd love to see it in all the schools.

The March 22 visit was the second of three that will each involve different organizations. The first was in February and the last is set for Friday, April 22.

Holy Week at Our Lady of the Lake

Holy Week was beautiful this year, from Tenebrae on March 23, through Easter Sunday, March 27, we were blessed to celebrate together and share in this important season. We were particularly happy to baptize seven new members into our Catholic community at the Easter Vigil on March 26. A very warm welcome to Zinyah George, Lan Chen Lemieux, Brandon Johnson, Leila Johnson, Catherine Long, Sedona Stankus and Julian Stankus. We are so glad to have you here at Our Lady of the Lake!

Renee Kovacic brought their newborn baby when she presided at Tenebrae

Our Lady of the Lake is so proud to welcome the seven new members of our community who were baptized into the Catholic faith at the Easter Vigil.

OLL Kindergarten Accepting Applications

At Our Lady of the Lake School, you will find that we are like a family. Your child will learn good habits and attitudes in our loving Catholic community. Through patient and respectful methods, our earliest learners develop a positive sense of themselves, which will make a difference

Our teachers encourage children to be active and creative explorers who are not afraid to try out their ideas and to think their own thoughts. Our goal is to help children become independent, selfconfident, inquisitive learners by allowing them to explore, question and discover in a stimulating environment.

We understand that young children learn best by doing. Our teachers develop curriculum that uses all five senses. This requires children to think actively and experiment to find out how things work, promoting firsthand learning about the world we live in. In short, our staff teaches children how to learn, not just in preschool, but all through their lives.

We recognize that parents are our children's first and best teachers. Learning happens when children are interacting with their families, teachers, friends and environment. Our teachers use their classrooms and outdoor environments to provoke new experiences and inspire learning. Parents are encouraged to continue these conversations with their children at home or to participate in the classrooms as volunteers

Our Lady of the Lake School offers a fullday Kindergarten program fully accredited by the State of Ohio through the Ohio Catholic Schools Accrediting Association in a warm and caring environment. Our children make use of all our wonderful teachers and facilities, including our state of the art computer lab, library, full gym, art and music classes. Children must be five years old by August 1 of the year they are entering. One of the steps in the enrollment process is an assessment so that we have a sense of the child as an individual and the class as a whole.

Our Kindergarten assessment days are: May 2 & May 9, 2016. Please reserve your spot now by contacting Rita Kingsbury, Principal, at rkingsbury@ourladyofthelakeschooleuclid.org or (216) 481-6824.

EXPLORING OUR COMMON HOME TOGETHER

Our Lady of the Lake Parish is heeding Pope Francis' call to be a church that goes forth with its spring community service project.

Beginning April 9, teams of walkers from Our Lady of the Lake will be exploring our parish, getting to know its people, features and challenges. It's a great chance to get to know the community, meet some neighbors, and spend time with fellow parishioners as well. We would love parishioners to be part of the team, or residents to come out and meet our walkers when we're in your neighborhood!

We'll begin our walks on April 9, and by April 16 we'll have walked every street in the parish. If you'd like to know more about what we'll be doing as we walk, or when walkers might be coming to your street, please contact us. We'd love to hear from you!

William R. Cervenik, who for the past 12 years has served as Mayor of the City of Euclid, has been named President of Villa Angela-St. Joseph High School.

The announcement was made by Margaret Lyons, Secretary for Cathechetical Formation and Education/Superintendent of Schools for the Catholic Diocese of Cleveland. Cervenik will report to Eugene Boyer, Associate Superintendent for Secondary Schools & Newman Campus Ministry.

"Bill has been a longtime friend to Villa Angela-Saint Joseph and has demonstrated a keen understanding of its rich heritage, its strengths, and its challenges moving forward. These insights coupled with his love for VASJ and its wonderful community make Bill the right choice," said Margaret Lyons. Cervenik, 61, is a 1972 graduate of St. Joseph High School, which merged with Villa Angela Academy to form VASJ in 1990. He received his bachelor's degree in business administration (accounting) from Cleveland State University in 1980.

He has been a Certified Public Accountant since 1983. Prior to his service as Mayor, which ended due to term limits this year, he served for 12 years on Euclid City Council. For five of those years, he was City Council President.

He assumed the council presidency after the untimely death of Joseph Farrell, a longtime St. Joseph High School teacher. Cervenik, who credits his career in politics and accounting directly to his experience at St. Joseph, also is a partner in the CPA firm Gallagher, Cervenik & Associates.

Former Euclid mayor Bill Cervenik '72 was named the next President of Villa Angela-St. Joseph High School. He succeeds Richard Osborne '69 who is retiring June 30.

Cervenik, who was inducted into the VASJ Hall of Fame in 2009, has been a leader in numerous civic activities in the Collinwood-Euclid community for many years. He was named Euclid Chamber of Commerce Business Person of the Year in 1995 and 2006, and American Legion Citizen of the Year in 2007. He received the Euclid Hospital Community Service Award in 2008 and the Rose Mary Center Angel Award in 2009.

He has been a board member of the Regional Transit Authority (RTA) since 2006, including the last three years as Chairman of the Finance Commission. He has served on the Northeast Ohio Areawide Coordinating Agency (NOACA) Board of Trustees since 2006, including the last two years as Chairman of the Finance & Audit Committee. He has been a board member of the First Suburbs Consortium since 2004, including his role as Chairman in 2012-13. He served as a member of the Cuyahoga County Mayors and Managers Association from 2003-15.

"I am honored to serve the Villa Angela-St. Joseph High School community as its next president,' Cervenik said. "VASJ plays an important role in the community providing its students with a strong Catholic education, developing young leaders and preparing them for a successful college career and beyond. My goal will be to further the strong traditions and values of VASJ and guide its continued growth and stature for vears to come."

Cervenik and his wife, Mary Kay (Gross) Cervenik, a 1971 graduate of Villa Angela, have been married for 41 years. They have two children, both of whom are VASJ graduates, Billy '94 and Katie '97. They have one granddaughter, Emma Cervenik, 13.

Cervenik succeeds Richard Osborne '69, who is retiring June 30 after five years as VASJ President.

Villa Angela-St. Joseph High School is a Catholic, Diocesan-owned, comprehensive college-preparatory school rooted in the Ursuline and Marianist traditions and committed to the spiritual, academic and personal growth of each student.

Alumnus makes $250,000 gift to continue the dream at VASJ

Longtime business leader Joseph Scaminace has pledged a $250,000 gift to Villa Angela-St. Joseph High School. The gift kicks off the school's "Continue the Dream" event, which took place on April 2 in the school gym. Scaminace, a generous supporter of the school for many years, was the event's Presenting Sponsor.

I am extremely proud of what VASJ has accomplished over the past several years, and I want to be part of its ongoing success," said Scaminace, a 1971 graduate of St. Joseph High School, which merged with Villa Angela Academy to form VASJ in 1990.

"My own experience as a student provided me with a valuesbased education that guided my approach to life, both personally and professionally," Scaminace said. "I am blessed to be able to assist in bringing the strong Catholic values of the diocese, the Ursulines and the Marianists to another generation of students at our school." Owned by the Catholic Diocese of Cleveland, VASJ is the only school in the world that is sponsored by both the Ursuline Sisters and the Society of Mary (Marianist Brothers).

"This is an extraordinary gift from Mr. Scaminace," said Eugene Boyer, Associate Superintendent for Secondary Schools & Newman Campus Ministry for the Diocese of Cleveland. "I believe it is one of the largest, if not the largest, gift given to VASJ.

"Mr. Scaminace's commitment to Catholic education provides not only resources but true hope and love to our students," Bover added, "The development of Catholic leaders for the future is critical to our society indeed to our world

Scaminace served for 10 years as Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of OM Group Inc., a $1.5 billion technology-driven diversified industrial manufacturer. The company, which Scaminace left after successfully rewarding shareholders with a 30 percent premium when it was sold last October, employed 6,000 people serving global markets.

Previously, Scaminace was President and Chief Operating Officer of Sherwin Williams, an $8 billion global leader in the manufacture, development, distribution and sale of coatings and related products. Scaminace earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Economics from the University of Dayton and an MBA from Case Western Reserve University.

His latest gift to VASJ will be used in part to enhance values-based leadership lessons at the school. In cooperation with the school and the Diocese of Cleveland, retiring VAS President Richard Osborne '69 will coordinate details.

"We're very grateful for this support," said VASJ Principal David Csank. "Mr. Scaminace has given powerful and inspiring messages when he has addressed our students in the past. Certainly he is an alum who has expressed his thanks for his education here in both his words and deeds."

Newly appointed VASJ President William Cervenik '72 added: "Among the many reasons I am excited about returning to my alma mater is the opportunity to work with outstanding individuals like Joe Scaminace."

An appreciative audience echoed their approval throughout the March 17th evening performance by CityMusic Cleveland hosted by St. Jerome Church. Ronald Strauss, MD, President of the Board, as well as an amateur violinist himself, welcomed everyone to the first-ever Collinwood appearance by the orchestra, which is celebrating its 12th season of bringing free concerts to Cleveland neighborhoods. The orchestra brought 38 skilled musicians and the very talented soprano, Jeanine De Bique for this performance which included selections by Beethoven, Grieg, Bizet, and Puccini.

The response from the concert goers included one by Clurie Bennis, who has only missed one performance in twelve years. She volunteers to help the orchestra bring "maximum music set in minimum overhead." The venues receive no compensation for hosting an event. Teri Dew, a local resident, who regularly attends CityMusic concerts, was really excited that the performance was held so close to home. For long-time parishioner Kathy Mrsnik, this was her first CityMusic Cleveland concert and she said, "It was all that was promised and more. They were fantastic." A Pepper Pike resident enthusiastically thought the performance was spectacular, enhanced by the exceptional acoustics of the church, and the gracious hospitality of parishioners and the community. Before the concert, St. Jerome parishioners served up delicious Guinness Stew and Irish Soda Bread in the school gym and, later, coffee and pastries in church at intermission.

In the words of Dr. Strauss, the mission of CityMusic Cleveland is to make classical music accessible to everyone, with no economic or geographic barriers. The orchestra highlights its social conscience through music and educational programs. St. Jerome Church is honored to be a City-Music Cleveland concert venue and looks forward to May 12 when the orchestra returns to perform another free music program, which will include selections from Mendelssohn and Dvorak featuring violin soloist Tessa Lark, for all Collinwood to enjoy. Plan to become part of the cheering audience on Thursday, May 12, and warmly welcome CityMusic back to the neighborhood by Mr. Dragas, Music Teacher This year in Music class the St. Jerome 8th graders have been working on a recording project. They are making their own recordings, playing and singing various parts of various songs. The class has learned the history of recording, from the days of "Direct to Disc" to modern digital, computer based techniques. They've also learned about different microphones and how to set them up to record with. Utilizing a portable studio, they've been busy laying down tracks that they will later mix down onto a CD.

This project has given the students an opportunity to apply their musical knowledge and talents to something that they will be able to listen to long after they have moved on to high school. They will be able to say that this is something that "We" made in music class. The project will tie together all the things that they have learned about in music in a fun and lasting way.

Investigating Holmes Avenue

Holmes Avenue looking East. The Slovenian Home is on the right.

While North Shore Collinwood is getting the media attention these days, the Collinwood-Nottingham Village neighborhood is also a community trying to reinvent itself. According to Mary Louise Daley, this was the second most important industrial area in the city, "Any company in Cleveland you can think of got started in Collinwood," Not only that, the Five Points area, the intersection of St. Clair and East 152nd St., was a major commercial area. Like for many Cleveland neighborhoods, the past five decades have been a challenge but things are now looking up; as I discovered while recently driving down Holmes

The streets off of Holmes Avenue are a mirror image of the ones along East 152nd Street north of I-90. There are mainly rows of duplexes built before World War I lining the streets; many look run down, some still vacant though many others have been demolished. Here and there you find an old store or vacant lot where structures once were. The imposing edifice of St. Mary of the Assumption Catholic Church (also known as St. Mary's Collinwood) serves as witness to what it used to be. Like in many

moved on but the churches remain. To the north is the former Collinwood Rail Yards, one of the main engines for the area's growth a century ago. Closed in 1981 (though the CSX intermodal facility still operates on part of the site), part of the site has since been redeveloped being the location for, among other things, a social security office, the Greater Cleveland Food Bank and the headquarters of Jergen's Inc. Just South of Holmes on East 152nd St is the headquarters of the 5th District Police which covers not only Collinwood but all of Northeast Cleveland as far as East 55th St.

There is no doubt that this place has seen better days. However, according to Councilman Michael D. Polensek a few projects are in the works that can truly be beneficial in the long run. For example, the pastor of St. Mary's, Father John Kumse, is buying up vacant properties for urban agriculture. In fact, on East 156, he is creating something that was quite common in the area 120 years ago; a vineyard. At one time Collinwood and Nottingham were major centers for table grape production. Even Ferrante Winery, now located in Ashtabula County, had its' start there so Father Kumse is merely reviving something quite commonplace there. He's not the only one to do so. Collinwood Grape Company located on Mandalay Avenue is also assembling property to create a winery with a stone chalet.

Urban Garden District Legislation, passed by Cleveland City Council in 2007, has encouraged to conversion of thousands of vacant properties into community gardens and, lately, urban farms such as Ohio City Farm (covering 6 acres in Ohio City) or the Chateau Hough Vineyard on the East Side. Subsequent legislation passed in 2009 has opened the door to raising small livestock (or "Chicken and Bees" ordinance) which has opened the way to what is going on around Holmes Avenue.

Meanwhile, at the corner of east 156th St. and Saranac, there is an effort by the Center for Advanced Mental Health Practice (CAMHP) along with the Collinwood Catholic Ministries to open up an urban grocery store. Located in a former existing grocery store, it will specialize in produce from the community gardens of the area. According to CAMHP's Danielle Dronet, this is planned as a self-sustaining operation that "Will create local jobs and we hope to move into a bigger production of our goods," which would be sold not only to local residents, but area restaurants and even online. They plan to produce food that "looks like something you would want to eat" from the community gardens, being it strawberries for homemade jams to tea produced from proposed greenhouses. One of the ideas Ms. Dronet mentioned was to grow lavender bushes, to "blanket the area" she put it, in many of the still vacant lots, including along Holmes Avenue. Not only would it be a cost effective way to beautify the area, but the flowers can be cultivated for use is in soaps, essential oils and other commercial purposes. A five year business plan has been submitted and they met with City of Cleveland officials on March 7th.

One consequence of all this is the fact that the crime rate around Holmes Avenue has plunged.

Like its' more publicized neighbor to the North, Collinwood-Nottingham Village, and Holmes Avenue, still is trying to figure out a way to be a better place. It will be interesting to see what happens in the years ahead.

Fundraiser for the Legendary 999 Empire State Express

by Michael Cavotta

There is a rich Collinwood history associated with the 999 replica. Built in about the mid 40's at the Collinwood Yards, it has traveled nationwide and was out of the Collinwood neighborhood for almost 40 years. Recently CHSAA secured the legendary Empire State Express replica and has started the restoration process. To learn more about the legendary 999, visit: http://www.collinwoodalumni.com/uploads/The_999_Story_website3-1.pdf

Why are donations needed? The 65 plus years have taken their toll on the 999 and, out of necessity, it needs some immediate repairs to become operational and several future upgrades to improve its overall presentation. Phase I will get the 999 operational and has an estimated cost of $5,545.00 which is not covered by the current CHSAA budget. This includes insurance, storage, tune-up, battery, tires, radiator, tail lights, brakes and engagement moves. The details of Phases II & III which includes repainting and various upgrades are available on request. We have already applied for Grants to cover these expenditures.

Why Donate? Your tax deductible donation is great way to promote Collinwood by getting the 999 back on the road again for neighborhood and reunion engagements. Plus . . . . you have a chance to win $500.00 provided by our sponsors listed below. So keep them in mind for their generosity.

How does it work? For every $5 you donate your name is placed into the selection drum. For example, if you donate $25, your name will be added 5 times. The more you donate, the higher your probability of winning. A winner will be selected from the drum and notified once we reach our goal of $5,000 or by July 1, 2016 whichever comes first. # Shave to Raise for St. Baldricks

bv Susan Brand

March 17, 2016 marked yet another great St. Patrick Day on E. 185th along with the city of Cleveland.

Along with St. Patrick celebrations, there brought on a more serious matter of childhood cancers, hence the St. Baldrics Held this year again at Cebar's Euclid Tavern, St. Baldricks is the foundation that shaves peoples hair off to mimic kids going through chemotherapy treatment. This year marked a very personal and endearing moment at Cebar's when a patron, Mary Ann Borris, thinking that a goal of $500 was a little unattainable, stepped up and pledged that very amount to shave all of her hair off. This pledge was made in January of 2016. Two months later and a few week away from the event, Mary Ann, unfortunately, found out that she has cancer.

So with determination and a very strong sense of accomplishment, Cebar's Euclid Tavern Shave to Raise event took on a whole new animal. Starting at 1 pm and ending at 7 pm, online contributions started coming in at $237. Before 7 pm the event was well over the $500 mark and getting close to doubling the pledge. People from everywhere were donating online and in the bar. The luck of the irish was certainly with us that day!

In all 2 Barbers, Susan M. Brandt from Beachland Hair and Joe LaMarca from LaMarca Family Barber Shop, braved the shaves along with about 10 heads and lots of donations! Thanks to Cebar's Euclid Tavern for hosting Lisko Beauty and Barber Supply for the chair and supplies, and all the donation made by the patrons at Cebar's Euclid Tavern! See you next year!

Little Red Cap Symbolic Remembrance of 1908 Collinwood School Fire

by Gail Greenberg

One hundred eight years ago this past March 4th, a horrific and inconceivable tragedy shocked the entire village of Collinwood. On that Ash Wednesday morning, fire engulfed the seven-year-old, threestory Lakeview Elementary School, killing 172 children and 3 adults.

According to the account by local author and resident Edward (Sonny) Kern, "The flames burned through the pine wood floors so quickly that within an hour's time since the [fire] alarm was given, the school was reduced to nothing but a burned out shell of outer brick walls that encircled and enshrined a basement full of ashes and corpses of children."

The sadness, sorrow, grief and heartache that touched the lives of survivors' families, the city, and country then (and for generations afterward), may have now inspired something both positive and uplifting.

A driving force behind this evolution has been Charlotte Iafeliece, long-time Collinwood resident and niece of seven-year-old Johan (John) Pazicky, who was among the fire's victims. Almost a year ago, Iafeliece and Elva Brodnick, another Collinwood resident, embarked on a plan to restore and maintain the current Memorial Garden, built to replace the original one that was built on the site of the old school at East 152nd Street and Lucknow Road.

Dubbed The Little Red Cap Project, this community botanical effort is intended to perpetuate the memories of all those who perished. It takes its name from Johan Pazicky, who initially escaped the burning school building but ran back in to retrieve his little red cap.

Through the collective efforts of The Little Red Cap Project members and a host of other individuals and organizations including, Memorial School and its Garden Angels, Collinwood Nottingham Historical Society, Councilman Mike Polensek, the school district, student workers, and community volunteers, the garden is newly landscaped and ready for this season's planting. Hopefully, this month's April showers will bring red and white geranium flowers to beautify this historic landmark and renew the legacy it reflects.

The future is rarely a sure thing. That's a tough lesson. Life happens, people change, situations come up that you never dreamed of, we get older, loved ones die. It can feel like you have no control.

I wondered how my friends at the Center viewed this, so I asked. Many said that they have lived a good life, but they know they are on the downside of the hill. It's a reality that they see every day when they look into the mirror.

- When I talked with them about it, here's the comments that I heard.
- Don't take life too seriously....it's not permanent.
- Do good while you can. In life, what goes around does come around.
- I don't have the time to grumble or complain.
- I don't know what the future holds, but I know Who holds the future.

Isabel was born and raised in Harlem, NY, but Cleveland has been her home for a long time. Isabel is being honored this month by the Greater Cleveland Volunteers for being the longest serving volunteer the organization has ever had. Isabel has been volunteering with them since 1983 and has accrued over 25,000 hours of volunteer service over that time. Isabel for many of those years ran the snack bar at, what was then, the Golden Age Centers of Greater Cleveland, now the Rose Centers for Aging Well. Isabel is now "retired" from her snack bar job, but still comes to the center regularly to socialize and visit with friends. If you ask Isabel what is the secret to living so long, it is doing what brings you pleasure and working hard.

Music and Recruiting in the Austro-Hungarian Army

The Impreza Piano Trio, Sunday April 10,

The concert opens with Haydn's "Gypsy Rondo" Trio in G Major from 1795, colored by a Hungarian style Rondo finale movement which incorporates several gypsy tunes - including "Recruiting Dances" that were used by Austrian army officials to attract peasants to recruiting posts. The first two movements are more tranquil; first a set of variations alternating between major and minor, followed by a gentle, melodic Adagio.

Shostakovich's Trio No. 2 in E minor, composed during World War II and premiered in Leningrad in 1944, its four movements express degrees of intensity, angst, drama, joy, and frenzy. The music powerfully reflects on the conditions Shostakovich witnessed in Soviet Russia, and the impact on listeners is usually mesmerizing.

The Impreza program will close with Mendelssohn's extraordinarily rich and varied Piano Trio No. 2 in Cminor, a four-movement work composed in 1845, with virtuosic writing for the three instruments. You'll recognize the familiar "Old Hundredth" hymn melody, commonly known today as "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow," in the final movement. The music is majestic and extremely dramatic, and will make for a grand ending to the overall program.

Piano Trio in G Major 'Gypsy Rondo': Franz Joseph Haydn (1732-1809)

- 1. Andante
- 2. Poco Adagio

3. Finale: Rondo all' Ongarese. Presto Piano Trio No. 2 in E minor, Op. 67; Dmitri Shostakovich (1906-1975)

- 1. Andante
- 2. Allegro non troppo
- 3. Largo
- 4. Allegretto Intermission

Piano Trio No. 2, Op. 66: Felix Mendelssohn (1809 - 1847)

Allegretto energico e fuoco Andante espressivo 2.

- Scherzo: Molto Allegro quasi Presto 3.
- 4. Finale. Allegro appassionato Emily Cornelius holds degrees from the
