Oliver H. Perry Welcomes Families to ‘Meet and Greet’

This rendering shows a new Oliver H. Perry School building that is scheduled for completion in 2018.

by CMSD News Bureau

Oliver H. Perry School will host a “meet and greet” from 5 to 7 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 11 at the school.

Registered students and their families, as well as families that may want to send their children to Oliver H. Perry can meet new Principal Brittani Irvin, teachers, staff and the school’s leadership team. Classes for the 2017-18 school year will begin Monday, Aug. 14.

As a member of the Cleveland Metropolitan School District’s Aspiring Principals Academy, a leadership training program, Irvin spent last school year at Harvey Rice School. She previously was a teacher development facilitator and teacher in New York City schools.

“I have a passion for creative learning opportunities for scholars, and I believe that arts-integrated learning has a powerful impact on student achievement,” she said. “I also believe that parent and community engagement is critical to a school’s success.”

Oliver H. Perry, located at 18400 Schenely Ave., is for preschool through eighth grade. The school partners with the Center for Arts-Inspired Learning and ZENworks, which teaches skills through the practice of yoga.

Perry has new middle-school and art teachers this year and offers middle-school sports in volleyball, basketball and track.

A new building for the school is under construction on the same property and is to be completed in 2018. The work is among construction projects that CMSD is undertaking with state money and proceeds from a bond issue that voters approved in 2014.

Thanks to the glorious weather, wonderful neighbors both past and present, and the best volunteer crew out there, the 2017 Shore Acres 4th of July celebration was a huge success. The parade stretched for almost a full block! The 400 picnic-goers were entertained by wonderful live music and enjoyed traditional favorites off the grill along with watermelon and amazing desserts contributed by neighbors and friends. There was face painting, a magician came and fascinated everyone with his skill. We had an opportunity to take part in painting a rain-barrel dedicated to long time Shore Acres residents, the Biondo family. As a special treat we were delighted to host the cast and crew of “An American in Paris” who had a great day. One of the cast members commented that “We never get to do anything like this in New York!”

Healthy Moms – Healthy Babies – Pregnant and young moms meet every Wednesday from 11:00 – 1:00 with an AMERICORPS volunteer to learn about healthy eating habits for themselves and their families. An AMERICORPS volunteer facilitates the group.

Pregnant moms also have the support of a doula. Please call Sr Mary Ellen at 216-408-0214 for more information.

National Library Card Sign-Up Month Returns September 1-30

by Ashley Gowens

This September, the Euclid Public Library is again teaming up with eight other local library systems to encourage every child under 18, to sign up for a free library card or get rid of fines that may stop them from checking out their favorite items. The initiative, called A Card for Every Kid, will take place September 1-30 to coincide with National Library Card Sign-Up Month. It is a cooperative effort among the Cuyahoga County library systems to raise awareness of the importance of library card ownership for children and teens. The initiative also seeks to gain a better understanding of the barriers that keep some children and teens from owning a library card.

Visit EPL, Cleveland Public Library, Cuyahoga County Public Library, East Cleveland Public Library, Heights Public Library (Cleveland Heights-University Heights), Lakewood Public Library, Rocky River Public Library, Shaker Heights Public Library, and Westlake Porter Public Library anytime during September to register for a library card or to receive a one-time waiver of fines and fees. Participants will receive a Smencil™ while supplies last! Some restrictions may apply. Please visit EPL for more information.

GardenWalk Cleveland 2017

by Teri Dew

A perfect summer weekend welcomed visitors to North Collinwood on July 8 and 9 for our first appearance on the 6th annual GardenWalk tour held in 4 Cleveland neighborhoods (the others were West Park, Slavic Village, and Detroit Shoreway). They were treated to a wonderful variety of garden styles and venues, including a terraced slope to a private sandy beach, a garden full of rare and prized day lilies, a “pocket farm” with bees and chickens, a sustainable unmanicured lakefront garden which had the feel of a movie set, a hidden backyard “fairy garden,” several appealing “no mow” gardens, and a lovely Art Park next to NSDC on on E 156, which served as the Headquarters. David Simpson Hospice House Vista Walk and Tribute Garden was a Special Feature stop as well. Saturday visitors were invited to join the Collinwood Community Pot Luck at Euclid Beach. There were 30 stops on the tour where visitors (many first time) met and talked with the gardeners and left not only with ideas and gardening tips, but with many appealing reasons to return to North Collinwood for other amenities, such as recreation (Metroparks), dining and entertainment. Several left with a Scoop on Summer and the remaining summer concert schedule and were encouraged to pay us a return visit. The feedback from visitors, gardeners, and the GardenWalk Committee members was overwhelmingly positive and it is likely that we will be invited to repeat in the future.

I sincerely wish to thank all of the generous homeowners who took a leap of faith and volunteered to share the fruits of their sweat equity and creativity with a parade of garden lovers. I can say with all honesty that it was time well spent. In the event of a future appearance in the GardenWalk, you will all be invited back, and additional volunteers will be most welcome.

Now just enjoy your summer in your amazing gardens.

Euclid Mini Mart Provides Superior Service

I had a large event recently that required me to order a large amount of pop, beer, and liquor. I went to the Euclid Mini Mart located at 355 E. 200th St. in Euclid. The staff took excellent care of my order. All the beer was in the cooler, ice cold. They carried everything out to my car for me. Overall I had a wonderful experience. I highly recommend shopping at the Euclid Mini Mart. They are open from 9 AM to 11 PM Monday through Saturday, and open from 11 AM to 10 PM on Sunday.

Playwrights Local Presents the 3rd Annual Cleveland Playwrights Festival on September 23

by Playwrights Local 4181

Free plays, workshops, and special events presented September 23 at Waterloo Arts.

Playwrights Local announces the 3rd Annual Cleveland Playwrights Festival, the latest staging of this free, annual celebration of dramatic writing in Northeast Ohio. Presented on Saturday, September 23, the Festival features open class and craft talk sessions, new plays by local authors, a special video screening, networking opportunities, and much more. Sessions run from noon to midnight at the Creative Space at Waterloo Arts in North Collinwood (397 E. 156th Street, Cleveland, OH 44110). All offerings are open to the public, and tickets or reservations are not required. The Festival is intended for adults and teens.

Featured staged readings in the 3rd Annual Cleveland Playwrights Festival include Vickie L. Williams' Axe Under the Bed and Stuart Hoffman's Broken Wings. Additional new works also will be presented by playwrights Daniel McNamara, David Ritchey, Daniel Telford, Craig A. Webb, Brian Zoldessy, and Rachel Zake. The festival kicks off with a class led by established local dramatist Eric Schmiedl entitled The Art of Adapting Works for the Stage. Other highlights include a craft talk on Working with New Plays with directors Sarah Greywitt and Dale Heinen. A complete schedule can be found online at Playwrights Local's website: <http://playwrightslocal.org/>. Additional information is available by calling (216) 302-8856.

"We're glad to be bringing back events that have been successful in our previous festivals, such as our afternoon classes and talks," says David Todd, Artistic Director of Playwrights Local. "We're also excited about first-time programs like our Newcomers' Reading, which presents plays by six writers who are making their debuts with us. As always, we're thrilled to have so many teachers, directors, and actors participate in this event. It's great being able to bring so many theater artists together and show off the work being created here in Northeast Ohio."

Partnered events in the 3rd Annual Cleveland Playwrights Festival include a presentation with the Bessemer Project, a local writing collective. Also planned is a screening of filmed monologues from Cleveland playwright Michael Oatman's webseries Mama Said: Stories of Life, Love, and Triumph. The afternoon class and craft talk will be co-presented with the Ohio region of the Dramatists Guild, a national organization dedicated to the rights of playwrights.

"One goal of this festival is to increase awareness of the playwriting community in the Cleveland area," says Todd. "Partnerships with related companies help expand that community and make sure these groups are connected. Ultimately, we hope such crossover strengthens this scene, which is full of amazing playwrights."

Playwrights Local is a theater company based in Cleveland. Billed as a playwrights' center, the organization's goal is to provide a home base for novice and experienced dramatic writers in Northeast Ohio. They offer classes and workshops, produce original plays, provide professional development opportunities, and engage the community through site-specific projects. Tax-deductible contributions to this 501(c)(3) group can be made at Playwrights Local's website: <http://playwrightslocal.org/donate/>.

Mentors needed for Cleveland 8th graders

by Molly Feghali

Apply now to help shape our community's future leaders

Volunteer mentors are needed for True2U, the program that supports Cleveland eighth graders as they explore their true selves and prepare to transition into high school. The coming school year is the first year True2U will serve all CMSD 8th graders—about 2,500 youth, and 600 mentors are needed.

Mentors work in teams of two or three and will spend 8 Thursday mornings helping small groups of students, in one participant's words, "prepare for the future with what I know about myself."

Mentor teams facilitate discussions and activities in a structured curriculum that helps youth uncover their interests and strengths, and set goals. The youth can then connect their goals to the diverse educational opportunities offered by the 37 high schools in the CMSD portfolio, setting them on a path of success in college and/or their careers.

Training and enrichment in the topics, facilitation, and cultural competency skills is provided. And mentors will have the satisfaction of helping shape—and being shaped by—the next generation of Cleveland's leaders.

Mentors are needed at all of the Collinwood grade schools, so you can indicate your preference for East Clark, Euclid Park, Hannah Gibbons, Memorial, OH Perry, or any K-8 school in the district when you apply.

The deadline to apply to be a mentor is August 28, 2017. Applications and a complete schedule can be found online at neighborhoodleadership.org, or by calling program manager Molly Feghali at (216) 658-1366.

True2U is presented in partnership by the Cleveland Metropolitan School District, The Greater Cleveland Partnership, MyCom, Neighborhood Leadership Institute, and the Northeast Ohio Faith-Based Collaborative.

School board seeks input on TIF proposal

by CMSD NEWS BUREAU

Before the Cleveland Board of Education votes on tax increment financing, or TIF, for a development project, CMSD is informing the public and collecting feedback that will guide the decision.

The board will vote Tuesday, Aug. 22 to accept or reject tax increment financing for nuCLEus, a proposed downtown development that would include retail shops, restaurants, offices, a hotel, condominiums and apartments. The board will review the proposal at a work session on Tuesday, Aug. 8.

The TIF would allow use of additional property taxes from the project over 30 years to pay development expenses.

CMSD is explaining the request through eight community meetings that end Aug. 6, mailings, telephone calls, social media and information posted on the District website.

The board also is conducting an online survey through Aug. 7. The survey, meeting schedule and other information may be found at www.clevelandmetroschools.org/nuCLEus.

We kick it all off with our Book Bag Blessing on Sunday, August 20, followed by an open house at the school. Returning families and those interested in getting to know our school community are all warmly invited.

If you think OLL School might be the best choice for your child, contact Principal Rita Kingsbury: rkingsbury@olleuclid.org. We're happy to offer tours and answers questions any time.

OLLY Goes Pro With New Video Club

by Rita Testa

Here at Our Lady of the Lake, I've made it my mission to find or create opportunities for teens to both sow and nurture "seeds" in the community, and for parishioners and families to engage with our youth. I was telling Fr. Joe about my idea for another youth opportunity --a teen video club where students could learn from adults with professional skills to make short videos that share our story through parish events and activities. The ideas is that teens learn valuable lifelong skills and participate in service with a purpose while both youth and adults form meaningful relationships and everyone becomes more engaged in the life of our parish and shares the good news. I was excited about the possibilities, and wanted to get Fr. Joe's feedback.

Well, this seed fell on fertile soil! Fr. Joe saw valuable potential, my friend and colleague, Dana Heil, provided a contact, and the end result was I connected with a really nice man named Dave Ramnarine who is going to help my idea become reality. Dave serves on the board at VASJ, is a professional videographer with the MLB (yes, including the Cleveland Indians!), and enjoys sharing his skills with youth. During our meeting, he graciously stepped up to volunteer his time and talents to lead our group along with some parents willing to provide support.

I am thrilled to inform you that Our Lady of the Lake Teen Video Club is born -- and it already has a new name! OLLY Productions (or OLLY Pro for short!), is ready to start rolling out new video clips, to help share the story of Our Lady of the Lake, our parish, community and people, and all the good things happening here.

With Dave's expert guidance, our youth will learn the entire process of creating professional videos, from writing the narrative, to working as a team, shooting the video, editing it, and producing a final product. They'll work through pre-production meetings, learn the art of videography, composition and framing, go out and find stories and work with the same state-of-the-art technology being used by professionals in the field. Our goal is to create and publish short videos about all sorts of parish events and activities, and we'd love to hear from you about stories you'd like to see produced. We also hope you'll get to know us better when you see us "live" and in action through our videos. There's so much value in communicating and sharing; we want to get to know each other better!

If you have ideas for us, please send them to me: Rita@olleuclid.org. We would love to have your input. If you would like to support our group by volunteering your time and talents, I'd love to hear from you as well.

This is a wonderful opportunity for our youth to stay connected, be involved with a meaningful project, and engage with our community. It will be wonderful to see Our Lady of the Lake's story in video. The stories we will be sharing are the stories we create together as a parish in all the things we do and in all of our events and gatherings. Because, everyday and in everything we do, all of us at Our Lady of the Lake are sowing seeds...and wonderful things are growing!

Save the Date for OLL Feast Day

The Feast of the Most Holy Name of Mary is Our Lady of the Lake's Feast Day, and its celebration has become a treasured tradition in the parish. Each year we begin at the lakefront, celebrating this wonderful resource right here in our backyard. We then process to the church together for prayer and a celebration of community, with ice cream and good fellowship. Being present in the community, celebrating our blessings and each other, is a true reflection of the values of this parish -- and a wonderful day to honor together. Please join us on September 12 and share in our tradition!

For more information on the Feast Day and other OLL events, please visit our website at www.olleuclid.org.

New Business Launching With Support from OLL

The Micro-Lending Cohort offers support to entrepreneurs launching new ideas

For more than a year, Our Lady of the Lake has been supporting a micro-lending initiative that helps people with good ideas but no access to funds get resources to start or grow a small business. Based on the concept of the Grameen Bank, and in line with OLL's strong commitment to social justice, this micro-lending project has brought together funding, resources, a strong cohort of community people, a network of professionals and dedicated volunteers to help people in the community help themselves. Together we provide guidance, coaching, professional advice in everything from marketing to bookkeeping and access to financial and community resources. Thanks to generous funding from the Catholic Campaign for Human Development, corporate partners such as Huntington Bank and our own generous parishioners, we have been able to make several successful loans and are excited to already be seeing businesses launch and flourish right here in our parish.

We are proud now to introduce our newest micro-lending participant, Lawanda Triplett. Lawanda will be using resources to launch a new commercial cleaning business, building on her years of experience and strong references to go out on her own and grow something new. Please join us in congratulating Lawanda and wishing her success!

Wickliffe High School student, Sydnée helps her grandmother JoAnne Janesko in the clothing room where they help clients find clothing and household items.

by Adele Markert

Every Monday and Wednesday from 11am to 2:30pm a small but mighty group of dedicated volunteers arrive at the corner of Lake Shore Blvd and Huntmere Ave. and the Collinwood Interfaith Church Council Food Pantry comes to life. The pantry serves nearly 600 clients a month. Many are seniors on fixed incomes or families with young children. The pantry supplies 3 days of food per household member each month. They also distribute clothing, from infant items to adult sizes, kitchen items, and toiletries.

On any given day you will find volunteers from St. Jerome, St. John Lutheran, and St. Anselm churches. It is a labor of love with volunteers becoming part of each other's extended families. And the volunteer habit is often passed from one generation to the next.

The morning I visited Allison, a St. Jerome student, and Tyler, a student at St. Martin de Porres high school, were there with their grandmother, Marcie Johns, a longtime volunteer from St. Jerome parish. JoAnne Janesko, from St. John Lutheran brought her granddaughter, Sydnée, a student at Wickliffe High. Some of the students are earning service hours needed for high school, Allison was working on a Girl Scout service badge. "We love the young people's energy and enthusiasm," said volunteer coordinator LeeAnn Tanner, from St. Jerome. We are happy to have students come here to get their service hours, but they need to call ahead and make arrangements. It is not a huge space, so if 12 people showed up one day, we wouldn't be able to use them all."

Sherry Kita and Gail Kaib were working the front desk, helping clients check in and recertify, which they need to do each July. They both find the work very rewarding and have been doing it for a long time, 8 years for Gail.

JoAnne showed me the clothing room, they accept donations and distribute a wide variety of clothing items from infant sizes to adult 4x and everything in between. She loves being able to help people and told me that they get a lot of families with young children and grandparents who are raising grandchildren who really appreciate the help. She was especially happy for a gentleman who came in this past month and found a suit coat that fit. He was very excited, he told her because now he had something to wear to his daughter's wedding.

The pantry can always use donations of food or cash. Especially appreciated are peanut butter, jelly, tuna, soups, and toiletries. Items can be dropped off at the pantry or brought to St. Jerome Church the first weekend of each month. Other items that are especially needed are kitchen items and men's clothing

They would also gratefully welcome new volunteers into the family. Whether you can give an hour a month or one day a week, it all helps. Call LeeAnn at 216-481-0794 for more details.

If you need help or know someone who does stop in any Monday or Wednesday between 11:30 and 2:30. First time clients will receive food regardless, returning clients must provide a State ID, proof of residence, and proof of the number of people in the household.

High School students, Tyler (St. Martin de Porres) and Sydnée (Wickliffe High) and Girl Scout, Allison (St. Jerome school) pre-pack bags with a three day supply of food for the nearly 600 clients the Food Pantry serves each month.

Volunteers Sherry Kita and Gail Kaib find their work at the food pantry very rewarding. "It's good to be able to help people, like the lady this morning who was suddenly needing to take care of her four grandchildren after her daughter had been injured in a car accident."

South Collinwood Community Youth Workforce Leadership

Family 4 Life Center on 148th and St Clair

by Ephraim Abdullah

Summer time is delicious Ice cream, a great breeze, fun in the sun at the beach, and summer jobs. Summer job youth employees under the collaboration of Y.O.U and the Family 4 Life Center connected with new curriculum this year. Pam Hagler CEO for Family 4 Life Center on the Southwest side of Collinwood, teamed up with a volunteer Business Consultant from the St Clair City Center to instruct the students. The Summer Job youth were taught workforce development, entrepreneurship, leadership, and given a breath of non-profit education to help them for their future. The students this year gathered into 3 groups and identified 3 different Community Projects that would ultimately bring a positive impact for Southwest Collinwood. Community Clean ups and Street Club Registration is the 1st project that occurs monthly to May of 2018, Food for Youth is the second project. Community Clean ups and Street Club Registration is the 1st project that occurs monthly from September 2017 to May of 2018, Food For Youth is the second project that offers healthy breakfast for Collinwood students or young adults to stop in the St Clair City Center on the way to school or work at no cost, and the third project is a new digital community board that will sit on the outside side wall of the Family 4 Life Center Building advertising businesses or events conveying messages to people traveling St Clair. Ultimately the group of students vows to call themselves Team Young and are working to help Engage Collinwood and Cleveland with their new found leadership. Team Young are accepting donations and Letters of Support to help inclusively develop in Collinwood.

Team Young is learning to write Neighborhood Connections grants to assist with their community project ideas of bringing positive changes to Collinwood, as a part of their workforce development, leadership, and Nonprofit training. It is a joy working with the fresh positive energy of young adults who are willing to work to their goals. The work that Team Young does and offer to small businesses include Administration, Marketing, and projects dealing with Community Development. Team Young called a Community

The Green House Co-working Space Launches August 2

The Green House at 20150 Lakeshore Blvd. in Euclid

by Angela Chambers

Working from her dining room table was getting old. Pamela Turos' children would say, "Remember when we used to eat lunch here?"

When the Good Cause Creative founder discovered her friend purchased a historic home at 20150 Lakeshore Blvd. in Euclid, she saw an opportunity. "If you ever remodel, please make it a shared workspace," said Turos to Paul Bearden of Collinwood.

Since this initial conversation in spring 2016, the house has undergone major renovations. Now dubbed The Green House for its sage color and nurturing environment, the collaborative work space for business owners, creatives and freelancers will officially launch Aug. 2.

Turos noticed similar concepts in other parts of town, like the Hildebrandt building in Ohio City and The Dealership in Shaker Heights, but there wasn't a place like it in the Euclid area.

"If I had huge overhead from an office space, I couldn't keep my services affordable," said Turos, whose business provides creative services to nonprofits. "Having a private, beautiful place to work within two years of starting my own business – that's a dream come true."

Siobhan Sudberry, who created the Be-Free Project, which hosts gatherings to help women find their strengths, held an event at The Green House in the spring and plans another for the fall. She's received "nothing but positive responses" about meeting at the house. Sudberry found meeting at The Green House was more personal and comfortable than other low-cost meeting options such as the library or restaurants.

When entering the updated home, a welcoming foyer with couch, chairs and a coffee table greets you with a room full of moveable tables and chairs, surrounded by a rotating collection of artwork from local artists. Going in a little farther, you'll find a kitchen stocked with coffee from Solstice Roasters and tea from Storehouse Tea Company – both Cleveland-owned businesses.

The private conference room and main shared workspace have all the perks of a modern office, including Smart TVs and wireless projectors with screen-sharing capability. Upstairs, you'll find One Tree Yoga studio, Turos' office and a healing suite available for rent by massage and reiki therapists. Renovations are almost complete for artists' studio space in the basement.

Along with co-working, individuals and businesses are welcome to host events or meetings in the house.

The community can tour The Green House and learn about what it has to offer during Euclid's Wednesdays on the Porch from 7 to 9 p.m. Aug. 2. The evening also is a gathering for neighbors to get to know one another and learn how to host an upcoming Porch event. Participants are encouraged to bring their own beverages, lawn chairs or blankets, and snacks to share. Local band Ulterior Motive will play classic rock music. Bring school supply donations for the Euclid/Hillcrest YMCA Family-to-Family Collaborative.

During Fridays in August, anyone can drop-in and work at The Green House for no charge.

Those who become members will have access to the building during business hours, with a host of member benefits and amenities, including discounted classes at One Tree Yoga. Turos said they are looking for up to six others to join as partners in The Green House, who will have unlimited access to the building and be part of decision-making on how the space will grow. Euclid Chamber of Commerce members receive a discount. Find out more at thegreenhouse-euclid.com or call 216-242-6777.

"When you're building a business, you need a tribe of people," said Turos. "You can't do it alone. Everyone who works here has unique strengths and skills, so we support each other. Together we can do so much more than any of us can do alone."

Bob’s Corner

by Bob Payne

I am facing a health crisis. As I write this, I am waiting for a bone marrow biopsy that will be conducted later today. I have previously had Leukemia (and had a horribly tough go of it), so recent blood test results have me quite worried. Something is wrong. The test today will help clarify exactly what is going on.

We all know that we are going to die someday, but we tend to push it out of our mind and go about business as usual. Yes, we know everybody dies, but we like to think that our death is sometime in the far distant future. Yet, we all know that tomorrow is promised to no one.

Personally, I have no fear of death (but please, I love this part of my life and I really don't care to go anytime soon!). Maybe my lack of fear is a lesson from my past illness or my belief about what happens afterward, but my fear is not of dying. My fear is not living this life fully. So I stay active, make time to enjoy life every day, and try my best not to worry. I am a bit anxiety prone by nature, but I've learned that no amount of worry or anxiety is going to make any bit of difference to the future. Worry keeps you locked in thought and robs you of experiencing the present.

I had an interesting thing happen to me last Saturday morning. My wife and I went grocery shopping (which I love because I get all the things that I like). While walking around the store I had a sudden and profound realization of how absolutely wondrous life is. Words cannot describe the intense feeling of joy. It was beautiful, blissful and overwhelming.

I looked around at the other people doing their shopping. They clearly were not having the same experience. Everyone appeared lost in thought, and in their own little world. I wanted to yell, "Wake up! It is glorious to be alive!" (which I'm sure would've probably gotten me hospitalized for a few days).

The point the experience made is important, and it brings me to ask you a few questions. Do you spend most of your day lost in thought? Are you here, but not really here? Are you living and experiencing life or just muddling through it?

Only you can answer those questions. But please, don't wait to start actually living your life. You never know what tomorrow holds. Wake up!
