Fresh Spot of Color on Waterloo

by Morgan Wood

Perhaps you have lately noticed a fresh spot of color acting like a beacon to Waterloo Road. The new mural, designed by French-born and British-educated designer and artist Camille Walala, was commissioned by Jack Mueller, a real estate investor who owns the former bank building on Waterloo Road. The building, upon completion of its interior, will be home to Poplife, a pop-up gallery, health food space, and donation-only yoga studio.

Walala's work is inspired by the Italian-lead Memphis Movement from the 1980s but is updated with influences from the Ndebele tribe and optical art. She has large-scale works in some of the most important cities in the world: New York, Paris, London, Sydney, and now Cleveland. Mueller said he stumbled across Walala's work online and was excited about its Memphis influences. From there the artist and the investor developed a friendship over Instagram, both sharing a love of graphic shapes and bold colors. When Mueller saw an opportunity to commission a mural from his favorite artist, he reached out, bringing Camille and her partner Julie Jomaa across the Atlantic for the project.

Mueller has said it is important to him that the building's exterior reflect its interior, revealing his business' dedication to the sublimity of bold shapes and bright colors. Simply, he "wants to make the world a more colorful place." Walala's aesthetic, bursting with sunny colors like cherry red, millennial pink, canary yellow, and "nifty turquoise" adds a splash of color, hopefully a smile, and a little bit of wonderment to the days of many Clevelanders.

Waterloo is lucky to have an investor like Jack, who believes in public art and in making art as accessible as possible. Amy Callahan, Executive Director at the non-profit Waterloo Arts, notes that public art is important because: "[if] you live in a neighborhood where there's poverty, that doesn't mean people shouldn't be able to see art on their walls just for art's sake." Callahan went on to say that every neighborhood deserves something beautiful, something that provides a unique point of pride and helps carve an identity out for residents. In particular, street art is like "having a conversation outside," and murals act as canvases that humanize our urban landscape. Walala's piece starts a conversation about the creativity and energy of humanity and about the egalitarianism of street art to passerby.

International Coastal Cleanup Day at Euclid Beach Park - Saturday 9/16

by Stephen Love

Be part of a global beach cleanup in partnership with the Alliance for the Great Lakes Adopt-a-Beach program and the Ocean Conservancy. On International Coastal Cleanup Day, thousands of volunteers head to beach cleanups around the world to raise awareness about the challenges of plastic pollution in our water. Debris collected at the Euclid Beach cleanup is recorded on data cards and submitted to the Alliance for the Great Lakes and the Ocean Conservancy along with data from beaches across the globe!

Volunteers will meet at the Euclid Beach Picnic Pavilion about 10-15 minutes before the cleanup to sign in. Refreshments will be provided to before and after the beach cleanup and all participating volunteers will receive a half off coupon redeemable at Chili Peppers restaurant, 869 E 185th Street, towards the purchase of one entree and drink.

Rain or shine, dress for the weather. Bring water, Wear long sleeves and pants, boots or work shoes, and work gloves are recommended. Trash bags and gloves will be provided.

All groups are welcome to participate, but children under age 18 require a parent or guardian's signature upon sign in. Children under 13 must be accompanied by an adult.

No pre-registration required! For more information visit facebook.com/AdoptEuclidBeach or contact Dan Subwick and Stephen Love at adopt.euclidbeach@gmail.com phone 216-571-0685.

Remembering the Sights & Sounds of Euclid Beach Park 13th Annual

by Rich Wickens

The Golden Age of the American amusement park lasted from the late 1890's to the late 1920's. At that time America was becoming more industrial, and individuals had more disposable income and time for entertainment. Hundreds of amusement parks opened in and around most major cities to offer one form of entertainment. Cleveland was no exception as many amusement parks opened. Better known were: Luna Park, White City, Puritas Springs, Chippewa Lake Park, Geauga Lake Park. Lesser known or remembered parks include; Scenic Park, Lincoln Park, Washington Park, Forest City Park, Wiloughbeach Park, Gordon Gardens, Orchard Lake Park, Brady Lake, and Mentor Beach Park. Missing from both lists is arguably Cleveland's most beloved amusement park, Euclid Beach Park which operated from 1895 to 1969. Individuals growing up in an around Cleveland and who had the opportunity to visit the park on the shores of Lake Erie, have fond and sentimental memories of the amusement park. Just mentioning Euclid Beach Park to someone who remembers the park will prompt a smile and story. Luckily large pieces of Euclid Beach Park have survived these 48 years since the park's final season. Euclid Beach Park's "Grand Carousel" has operated in the Cleveland History Center of the Western Reserve Historical Society in Cleveland's University Circle since the grand opening in 2014. Not many carousels have survived since the Golden Age of the amusement park. The Euclid Beach Park carousel operated at an amusement park in Old Orchard Beach after the park closed. Besides surviving the carousel returned to Cleveland something a very few carousels have done, returning to the city where it first operated. Another amazing event, the band organ that was with the carousel for 59 years at Euclid Beach Park is again with

by Brittney Fort

Whether it's number one or number two, have you always wondered what happens once you flush the toilet?

Find out at the Northeast Ohio Regional Sewer District's Open House on Sept. 16 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tour the largest wastewater treatment plant in Ohio and learn all about wastewater treatment from the knowledgeable tour guides. Join the lab tours, get up close with the huge work trucks, or step inside the Sewer Simulator. There is an activity for your whole family.

Kids can show off their creative ability by decorating hard hats, or enjoy face painting and balloon animals, but that's not all. Kids can touch the trucks and enjoy all the hands-on exhibits. Learn about animals and reptiles with Jungle Terry and Jungle Bob while enjoying free ice cream. Special guest appearances include Wally Waterdrop, Zach the Mad Scientist, and more. Make sure you bring your cameras and phones to participate in our social media contests to win prizes.

The Open House will offer more than 60 vendors with fun, interactive exhibits including radio station visits from Q104 and 98.5 WCXN. Sewer District departments offer stormwater credit information, construction project details, career opportunities, environmental tips and cost-saving information. You can also indulge in mouthwatering food from Up in Smoke BBQ and Barrio food trucks.

Did I mention that the Open House was free? Come enjoy giveaways, prizes, and free stuff with the Northeast Ohio Regional Sewer District! Missing out would stink... don't you think?

Event Location: 4747 East 49th Street, Cuyahoga Heights, Ohio. More Info: www.neorsd.org/openhouse

More than 2200 visitors came to last year's Open House at the Sewer District.

Councilman's Corner

by Michael D. Polensek

It goes without saying that the Concert Series along the lakefront this Summer have been a great success. My sincere thanks to the Beachland Park Association, Coronado Beach Association, the East Shore Park Club, and above all, the Cleveland MetroParks, for bringing "music to the neighborhood." We look forward to growing our concert series next summer and beyond.

Since my last update we have taken down an additional six (6) condemned and abandoned structures in addition to the 218 we have already removed. My sincere appreciation, specifically to the Cuyahoga County Landbank, for the partnership they have established with my office. For the first time in a long period we are making serious inroads in ridding our neighborhood of these derelict properties. My personal goal is to ramp up this effort throughout the remainder of this year into the next. Please remember, if there is an abandoned house on your street do not assume the City or County knows about it; for some neighbors have taken it upon themselves to maintain the yards and to pick up junk mail. I am greatly appreciative of these proactive neighbors. However, inspectors or our local development corporations wouldn't know they are abandoned. So, please let us know of an abandoned structure on your street or in the neighborhood.

Public safety is a number one priority and a foremost concern of all Cleveland residents. My sincere thanks to 5th District Commander, Sammy Morris, and the "men and women in blue" who patrol our neighborhood. This summer, with the help of our "nosey neighbors," who I love, the 5th District was able to stay on top of many problems which could have grown. When neighbors pay attention and look out for one another, what a difference it makes. Let's continue to send a message to those individuals who wish to disrupt the peace and sobriety of our community; it will not be tolerated in Ward 8.

I hope you have all witnessed the foundation work and the walls going up for the new O.H. Perry school between Harland and Schenely Avenues, just off East 185th Street. What a great sight and we all look forward to its completion.

This summer has also been busy with block parties, street events, neighborhood association meetings, picnics and a whole host of events planned to bring neighbors together. We are fortunate in Ward 8 to have as many active groups and organizations as we do. However, as I have witnessed so often, it is the same neighborhood leaders and volunteers trying to do it all. You know what? Even though they do a great job—they need rest too, and they need your help.

As many of you know, I have repeatedly appealed to residents to become involved in our local development corporations; Collinwood Nottingham Development Corporation and Northeast Shores. Please, become a stakeholder in the community and have a say in neighborhood issues and development plans. The door is always open and they welcome community participation.

QUESTION: Are you a registered voter? Do you know that there is a Mayoral Primary coming up? Tuesday, September 12th is Primary Election Day. I get calls and emails into my office daily about city services and issues that are of concern to local residents. This is your opportunity, as voter, to let your voice be heard, as to what you believe is important. There are nine people running for the Mayor's office. Two will come out of the primary to square off at the General Election to be held on Tuesday, November 7th. The General Election will also include Judicial races, Issues, and Council races city-wide including the 8th Ward.

As I have stated at our neighborhood meetings. These elections are critical on the northeast side from Glenville east through Collinwood and Nottingham. For, whoever is elected will once again be involved in the redistricting process. The last time that happened we saw our ward boundaries change to the west and south and our ward number was deliberately changed from Ward 11 to Ward 8. We need to make sure, whoever is elected, that they will look out for the best interest of the residents and put what is good for the neighborhoods city-wide above petty gerrymandering, which had a devastating impact upon such areas as the Nottingham neighborhood. Be an informed voter.

Those who wish to vote by absentee ballot through the mail can do so by calling the Board of Elections at (216) 443-3200 or visiting their website at www.boe@cuyahogacounty.us.

As always I can be reached at my office at (216) 664-4236 or via email at mpolensek@clevelandcitycouncil.org.

Sincerely,
Michael D. Polensek

A Q&A with Ian Charnas, manager of CWRU's think[box]

3D printers

Computers

fab shop

laser cutters

Electronics

by Gina M. Tabasso

How and when did think[box] come about? Where did the idea start, and who spearheaded it?

In March 2012, think[box] opened in a temporary 2,500-square-foot space on Case Western Reserve University's campus thanks to a generous gift by CWRU alum and wonderful human being Barry Romich. The facility really took off and before long was receiving thousands of visits a month. University Trustee Larry Sears along with other major supporters led the efforts to procure a new and larger facility, which led us to opening think[box] in a 50,000-square-foot space in October 2015.

Most people don't know what an open-access innovation center is. How would you describe it? What is its purpose? 50,000 square feet of what?

We describe think[box] as an innovation-focused makerspace. Now, "makerspace" is still a new term for many people, but think of a metal shop and a wood shop combined with all that new-fangled stuff. 3D printing, laser cutting, electronics, textiles, media, you get the idea. We have floors dedicated to prototyping and fabrication, as well as offices of support for entrepreneurship for projects that have the potential to turn into businesses and create jobs.

How has it succeeded, so far?

Innovation at think[box] is alive and well. More than 64 companies and startups have used the facility to raise more than $6.2 million in funding.

What types of things do people make there?

We see everything and everyone, from students working on academic coursework and research projects to startup companies and even folks working on hobbies and crafts. Startups and projects include medical devices, clean energy solutions, consumer electronics, aviation, robotics, as well as art and fashion, and much more.

How many visitors each month?

Currently think[box] receives on average more than 5,000 visits each month. On campus, only the gym and the library receive more visits, according to the provost's data.

Of these, how many are CWRU students, how many faculty, how many alumni and how many from the community?

Around 80 percent of our visits are CWRU persons (students, staff, and faculty) while 15 percent are from the neighboring Cleveland Institute of Art. We're very happy about that, of course, because when you get those designers and artists together with our scientists and engineers, and then you add law students and business students, now you have a real-world team that can take a project much further than any one of them could on their own. So that gets us to 95 percent, and the remaining 5 percent are general community members, including folks off the street, alumni, local entrepreneurs, and more.

Do local grade school and high school classes visit for STEM education?

Currently think[box] can host tours of K-12 students; however, the facility isn't set up to host entire classes working on projects. Individual K-12 students can attend with their parents and a signed waiver. Full details on our K-12 policies are available on our website.

How do you get the word out to the community?

Because of our focus on entrepreneurship, our primary outreach is to the local entrepreneur ecosystem -- groups like JumpStart, LaunchPad, FlashStarts, BizDom, and other accelerators and incubators. These groups have each sent startups over to think[box] to take advantage of the facilities here, and, in turn, CWRU has sent student startups to incubate with each of those groups.

I see the list of equipment online. Where did it come from?

The equipment at think[box] was selected by staff after careful consideration of features and after visiting several dozen high-profile makerspaces and shops around the nation, including visits to MIT, Stanford, and other highly regarded institutions.

What is your role there?

As the manager, my role involves fundraising, communications and promoting national visibility, overseeing selection of large equipment, recruiting and training staff, managing strategic projects, and organizational partnership development.

Is training available?

Yes, training is available on all of our machines. Users are expected to do their own design work (we do not offer design help) but staff are here to help show you how to safely operate the equipment.

How can think[box] help manufacturers, and what is its role in contributing to a skilled workforce?

The role of think[box] is to give free, open access to millions of dollars of high-tech prototyping equipment. When it's time to go to manufacture, we help link entrepreneurs with (ideally local) manufacturers so they can grow their business. Gina M. Tabasso, marketing communications specialist, HGR Industrial Surplus, www.hgrinc.com

“A Family Affair” with Glasbena Matica in Concert, Sunday, October 22

The Glasbena Matica Slovenian Singing Society performs in concert at St. Mary's Auditorium, 15517 Holmes Avenue, Cleveland, on Sunday, October 22, 2017.

by Joe Valencic

It's "A Family Affair" as the Glasbena Matica Slovenian Singing Society invites you to a concert and dance on Sunday, October 22, 2017. You'll enjoy Slovenian, classical and American melodies about family life, marriage, mothers and fathers, performed by Cleveland's legendary Slovenian chorus. Selections range from folk songs and opera to Avsenik and Slak favorites, plus Broadway and Cleveland-Style polkas – all saluting our family ties in Slovenian and English.

This year, the chorus performs at St. Mary's Auditorium, 15517 Holmes Avenue, in Cleveland's Collinwood neighborhood. Join the pre-show mingle at 2:00 p.m. with food and refreshments. Curtain time is 3:00 with Angela Perrine directing the chorus and Michael Cercek at the piano. After the show, stay for the social featuring Patty C and the Guys for dancing.

Admission to the annual concert and dance is $15 per person. Twelve and under free. Tickets are available from chorus members and the Polka Hall of Fame, 605 East 222nd Street in Euclid, Ohio. For more information, contact Lori at the Polka Hall of Fame, (216) 261-3263. ###

Read Up, Rise Up Summer Reading Club Highlights!

With the completion of our Summer Reading Club, 'Read Up! Rise Up! By Design', the Collinwood Library is happy to announce, to date, an engagement of 226 children ranging in age from Pre-K to teen; of those signed up over 160 children have completed the reading program. Grades Kindergarten through 8th held a strong representation this summer (70% enrollment!) with heavy participation from summer camps at Salvation Army, the Intergenerational School, and East Clark elementary. We at the branch wanted to take this opportunity to highlight four special individuals from this summer who excelled at reading and participation: Dashayla Dalton, Antonio 'Nikolai' Hodges, Kashyra Gore, and Summer Belcher. Thank you to ALL participants in making 'Read Up! Rise Up! By Design' one of the best Summer Reading Clubs, yet!

This summer was all about community. We are truly lucky to live where we do! Here's what we did: Ben Smith brought us on a journey through the age of recording equipment and even had some children test out his digital recording equipment. Linda Zolten Wood came through and showed us how to eat healthy, and even play some games! Daniel Gray-Kontar and his scholars from Twelve Literary and Performative Arts Incubator showed local teens what it was like to create a Poetry Lounge and perform live in front of their friends. It's a shame summer had to end.

Silhouette Productions and Shore Cultural Centre Proudly Present “Annie Get Your Gun”

by Charlotte Mirabile

Irving Berlin's "ANNIE GET YOUR GUN" scored a bulls eye when it returned to Broadway in 1999, starring Bernadette Peters and sporting a revised libretto by Tony, Oscar and Emmy winner Peter Stone. As Newsday reported, Stone's revisions 'are sweetly ingenious, and the show is a dream.' Stone reshaped the 1946 book to create a Wild West show-within-a-show that frames the ageless 'Anything You Can Do I Can Do Better' love story of sharpshooters Annie Oakley and Frank Butler. Stone has added a secondary romance between the younger sister of Frank's bothersome assistant Dolly, and a boy who is (to Dolly's horror) part Native American. "The book has been updated in ways that pass p.c. muster," reported Time Magazine, "without losing all the fun." Joined to the new book, of course, is that amazing Irving Berlin score, featuring hit after hit after hit. 'Irving Berlin's greatest achievement in the theater,' wrote the New York Post, ANNIE GET YOUR GUN 'will always be a musical for the ages, one of the Broadway theater's enduring triumphs.'

Q & A with furniture designer and F*SHO Founder Jason Radcliffe

by Gina Tabasso

What was the first piece of furniture that you created in 2005?

I built an awning for a friend's house in Tremont. It was my first piece that was memorable because I was able to build things for friends. I also built a small table for friend who worked at a furniture store, and I turned a steel-topped table on casters into a desk for myself. I had that desk until last summer when a fire in our storage building destroyed it.

What got you interested in furniture?

Functionally, I needed a desk. I like functional art and things that have a use. Also, I visited my friend's furniture store and a customer wanted stainless table with a glass top for a party but if they ordered one for her, it wouldn't have arrived in time. My friend said, "Here's my friend who makes furniture. He can make it for you in less than six weeks." Four days later, she had a stainless-steel frame with a glass top which was the start of my business. My friend, the owner of the store, asked for two pieces in three sizes, and it just took off.

What did you do as a career prior to your business?

Welding and fabrication, which I still do, and the furniture business is similar in that I change industrial items into shapes that work.

How and why did the F*SHO come into existence in 2009?

In 2008, I had shown my first pieces of furniture in a solo gallery exhibit then I planned to go to New York for Design Week because I wanted to see what people thought of my work but it cost $5,000 for a booth. I decided that wasn't affordable. In January 2009, the coordinator from Design Week emailed me offering 4' x 10' booth for $1600, and I took it. I took the Mousedesk that's on my website there and kept hearing, "You're from Cleveland? There's nothing going on in Cleveland." So F*SHO was my middle finger to them. I got five friends together, and we did the show at 78th Street Studios. We had 350 people show up. The next year we needed a bigger space. F*SHO is a contemporary furniture show featuring work by local designers, furniture makers and students from the Cleveland Institute of Art.

How many exhibitors and attendees do you usually have?

In 2016, we had 30 exhibitors and 3,000 attendees. Most of the visitors are from Cleveland, Columbus and Toledo.

How are the locations for the moving show selected?

I drive around or someone offers. We are going to continue moving it to different locations until 2019, then we're handing it off to my friend at Soucraft Woodshop, and it will be permanently housed in Ingenuity's space where his maker's space is located.

How do you market the show?

We've had articles in Fresh Water Cleveland and The Cleveland Plain Dealer, an interview on Kickin' It with Kenny and NPR's Around Noon, word of mouth and social media. People like its style, the romantic feel of only one night and if you're not there you missed it for the year. It's a five-hour guerilla show that's always on a Friday night in September from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. SoHo does the food. We have beer and a coffee bar. Everything is free to the public though we do suggest donations/tips to offset the costs of the food and beer. There's only a $50 exhibitor fee because we believe in getting us all together, and some new designers don't have the money.

How and when did you hear about HGR?

I work for my father's business, Barrington Pumps, and they are a customer. Then, my dad and I made a chair for Ingenuity Festival and a competition called "Chair and Tell." We filmed the entire process from walking through HGR buying materials to the fabrication and finishing.

What kinds of things have you bought at HGR?

Mostly stuff for Barrington, not 44 Steel and the furniture business -- pumps, parts, filters, storage bins. Then I get to take home scrap and salvage from the business

What do you enjoy doing when you're not working or making furniture?

My wife and I enjoy riding bikes, travel (most recently to Peru), our dog, being outdoors, boating on the lake, and skiing and snowboarding in Colorado.

Which artists inspire you?

A couple of French furniture designers and Victor Schreckengost from Cleveland for the amount of work he did and the variety.

How did you learn to be a furniture designer and maker?

I'm self-taught. I wanted to be an architect and went to OSU for two quarters. I love to clean up pieces and make them not look reclaimed. All of the Cleveland furniture makers use raw materials, but they each have their own unique fingerprints. In 2014, two months after Amanda and I were married, I left the business in her hands to go to California to film a furniture-maker reality TV show and competition on SPIKE that was hosted by Hip Hop Artist Common. It aired in 2015. It's been an exciting journey.

Have you visited HGR Industrial Surplus' showroom lately?

by Gina Tabasso

If not, you're in for a surprise; so stop by for a visit if you're in the area. If you have stopped in recently, you may have been one of the people walking through the office who exclaimed, "Wow, this place has changed. How spacious. Cool tables."

Turner Construction is putting the finishing touches on the front-office renovation. The entire area was gutted and rebuilt. HGR now has a large, welcoming reception desk, more room to move and amazing sales desks made by Jason Wein of Cleveland Art. There are new and larger restrooms, additional offices for staff, a nice conference room, and a new customer lounge and showroom entrance.

They're still working on the art and furnishings, but you'll notice that they went with an industrial design to stay in alignment with their business model and the history of the facility.

HGR thanks its customers for their patience during the renovation, especially with trekking to Aisle 6 for the bathrooms. Don't feel bad, the sales staff was in the same boat.

Some of the best times to visit HGR include sale days on the second Saturday and fourth Thursday of every month or during their Wednesday free customer lunch (a cookout with hot dogs and hamburgers in the summer and pizza the rest of the year).

And, yes, their tagline, "We buy and sell everything," is true! Yes, they are known for reselling lots of industrial equipment and machines but they sell home-improvement and maker doo dads, office furniture, and Aisle 1 has carried all of the following: fans, laptop bags, printer cartridges, gloves, boots, rugs, wine glasses and every odd and end.

the ride after it made its own journeys. Two different owners have the three rocket ships from the parks Rocket Ship circle swing ride both have motorized them and can be seen during Cleveland's warmer months traveling area roadways. One rocket ship car owner also acquired a roller coaster car from the park's Thriller coaster and has it mounted to the back of a 1930's pickup truck thus street legal.

Part of the original ninety acres of the amusement park, is part of Cleveland Metroparks, Euclid Creek Reservation, Euclid Beach Park. Just East of the entrance to this public park, stands the old arched entrance to the amusement park behind which are two high rise apartment buildings built soon after the park closed. Held annually in the public park is Remembering the Sights and Sounds of Euclid Beach Park. It is held the last Sunday in September so as to commemorate the last day Euclid Beach Park operated, September 28, 1969. The date for this year's event, September 24th the thirteenth annual. Attendance at last year's event was estimated at 4,000.

Euclid Beach Park Now, a non-profit organization founded in 1989 as a fan club for the old park sponsored the event. Also backing the one day event was The Euclid Beach Boys and Cleveland Metroparks. A grant from Cuyahoga Arts & Culture will help fund the celebration of the old amusement park. Donations from North Collinwood neighborhood business also help fund affair in 2916 donations were received from: Cebar's Euclid Tavern, Chili Peppers Fresh Mexican Grill, Excalibur Auto Body Inc., Great Scott Tavern, Gus's Diner One Eight Five, Kramer Printing Company, and Legacy Village. On the grounds was the Cleveland Fire Department's Smoke House and a naturalist from Cleveland Metroparks with some live area wildlife.

The Euclid Beach Boys brought some old ride cars that were at the park from their collection including The Rocket Ship Car and Thriller Car offering rides to and under the old entrance to Euclid Beach Park, then toward and under the bridge between the two high rise apartment buildings, from the Turnpike ride. Tagging along for a ride in their trailer and placed in the picnic pavilion, the "First Lady" of Euclid Beach Park, "Laughing Sal." Also located in the picnic pavilion were Euclid Beach Park related items that could be purchased; books, DVD's and new souvenirs like T-shirts and sweatshirts. Next to the picnic pavilion, returning for a second year, was WIXY 1260 Online Radio, playing a variety of music from the 60's and 70's.

Vintage automobiles, The Cars We Drove to Euclid Beach Park, filled the area where the Grand Carousel and buildings used to make and sell the Humphrey Popcorn Balls and Candy Kisses once stood. Near the picnic pavilion one could enjoy their favorite Euclid Beach Park treat; Humphrey Popcorn Balls and Candy Kisses Weber's Premium Custard. Celestial Treats was on site with their food trailer selling hot dogs, chips, and soft drinks.

North Ohio Classic Parks, an organization assisting EBPN since the first outdoor event, was set up in a large tent displaying Geauga Lake Park memorabilia. In the immediate area were booths for the Old Brooklyn Historical Society and a great display of Euclid Beach Park memorabilia by the youngest EBPN member, who was born lo-o-ng after the park closed. The Cleveland History Center of the Western Reserve Historical Society had an information table set up. The Collinwood Nottingham Historical Society also had an information table.

The History and Geography of Classical Music

Music for Miles brings Indian drums and an historical horn to Waterloo

Sunday September 10, 4 pm, Waterloo Arts Creative Center 397 E 156 St. Admission free. Nan Kennedy: 216-531-8161 nankennedy@yahoo.com

I hope everyone's summer was as green as mine – the garden burst all bounds and I am now enjoying the harvest. Music for Miles also had a creative summer, designing our Fall season, which will be lively, varied and educational.

The first concert of Fall, on September 10, will be played by Bill Meyer's Silver Keys Clarinet Quartet – a program of dance-inspired music; dancers. Neal &

Christy Dorenkott of Gotta Swing Dance will perform to the Silver Keys' versions of "Jitterbug Jump" and "You Can't Do that Shimmie Here." The Quartet will also play the overture from "The Marriage of Figaro"; traditional Irish and Scottish dances; the Habanera from "Carmen"; Tango; Summertime from "Porgy and Bess"; It Takes 4 to Tango; The Bishop Is Forced to Dance; Two Cuban Dances; A Klezmer Wedding; And America from "West Side Story".

On October 8, Lalit Subramanian (an accomplished South Indian musician) will take us a little way inside the two worlds of Indian classical music, which have much in common, but distinct separate heritages. Lalit's presentation will feature a percussion duet by the two standby Indian drums – the northern tabla and the southern mridangam; South Indian violin and voice presentations, and some talking and demonstrating in Lalit's lively master class style.

And on November 12, we'll take a trip back in the evolution of European classical music with James Hampson (the only known holder of a degree in performance on natural horn, also known as French horn), who will talk about the progress from hunting horn to the modern orchestra's double horn, illustrating the history with performances of Beethoven's Sonata for Horn and Piano, Gounod's Six Melodies, the Horn Concerto No.1 by Strauss and Saint-Saens' Romance in E Major – all on period instruments.

The concert starts at 4 pm. The atmosphere is casual, children are welcome. The Callaloo will be prepared with a glass of wine or some such (and Kelvin has been honing his barbecue recipe over the summer).

M4M concerts are presented with the support of Local 4 Music Fund, the Music Performance Trust Fund, the Waterloo Arts Friends' Committee, Cuyahoga Arts and Culture, and Ohio Arts Council – and the very generous support of neighbors who love music. Hence they are free – but donations are always much appreciated.

Primary Cluster Students explore math materials.

by Robin Bartley

On Wednesday, August 16th, the doors opened at Lakeshore Intergenerational School (LIS) for the start of our fourth school year! We now serve over 200 students (K-5) in the North Collinwood Community. We could not be more thrilled to welcome our students back into the building.

Within the building, the classrooms have been a flurry of activity while teachers work to develop supportive and caring classroom communities. These strong class communities are key to the development of lifelong learners and spirited citizens. If you want to see our school in action, please contact the school to schedule a tour. Can't make it in person, be sure to check us out on social media! Coming Soon!

While there is much to look forward to this year, in the coming days our classroom mentors/volunteers will rejoin our community of lifelong learners. If you are interested or know anyone interested in mentoring please contact us at SHallowell@lakeshoreschool.org.

Also on the horizon, our first field trip of the year to the Cleveland Metroparks Zoo! Primary and Junior Cluster students will get the chance to investigate wildlife from all around the globe.

A Wonderful Start to the School Year

Each year the Backpack Blessing and Open House kick off the start of the school year, and this year they were again a wonderful celebration, as school and parish families turned out to bless our students and wish them well. This year the church was particularly busy, with lots of other activities happening as well, including hospitality with coffee and donuts in the church hall, a blood drive in the gymnasium, and a uniform exchange organized by our very active PTO. It really takes a community to educate a child, and our parish community is committed to this important mission. We are so glad to see everyone come out to support our students!

OLL Is School of the Year!

We're so proud to be the Ohio Lottery Partners in Education School of the Year for 2017-2018. Thanks to this great partnership, Our Lady of the Lake School will be receiving many valuable benefits, which will be announced at our assembly on September 15. We look forward to sharing more details, and to celebrating this good news for our school.

Save the Date for Aladdin!

Our Lady of the Lake Parish Theater Group is proud to announce this year's performance of Aladdin, November 17, 18 and 19 at Shore Cultural Centre. Tickets will be available soon. Watch for more details on our website: www.olleuclid.org. For more information, please contact Rita Testa: rita@olleuclid.org.

All Are Welcome at Parish Feast Day

The parish feast day celebration is a favorite tradition at Our Lady of the Lake, and we are happy to invite any of our neighbors to come and celebrate it with us. We begin with a gathering at the Arcadia Beach Club at 5:30, with hot dogs and refreshments. We then process with music to the church for a prayer service, followed by an ice cream social in the church hall. All are welcome!

Join us for the annual St. Jerome Clam/Steak Bake! Good food, great friends, fabulous raffle prizes! YUM!
by Adele Markert
The annual St. Jerome Clam/Steak Bake will be held on Sunday, September 24th. Your $30 ticket includes your choice of one dozen tender clams with a half chicken or a delicious strip steak. Both entrees come with Clam Chowder, potato, corn on the cob, and a roll. Extra clams may be ordered for $10 a dozen. Dinners will be served from 1-4pm. Tickets can be purchased on line at www.stjeromecleveland.org, or in person after any weekend Mass, or by calling the church office at 216-481-8200

Come for the food, stay for the fellowship and for a chance at the fabulous Chinese Auction prizes which will be raffled off at the end of the day. From fine and casual dining opportunities, collectables and sports apparel, baskets for children, and opportunities to try out yoga or Karate lessons, to gift cards for services like auto maintenance, the variety and quality of the prizes is always amazing.
Help spread the word to former neighbors and classmates! See you at the Clam/Steak Bake!

The extraordinarily talented violinist, Tessa Lark will perform at St. Jerome Church along with the City Music Cleveland Chamber Orchestra on October 18th at 7:30pm. Don't miss this marvelous free concert featuring works by Schumann and Corigliano.
by Adele Markert
City Music Cleveland Chamber Orchestra will open their 14th Season with a concert at St. Jerome Church on Wednesday, October 18th at 7:30pm. Avner Dorman will conduct and the program will feature the amazing violinist, Tessa Lark. The performance will include:
• Schumann: Overture to Genoveva Op. 81
• Corigliano: The Red Violin Concerto
• Schumann Symphony No3 "Rhenish"

Miss Lark performed here two years ago delighting our audience both with the published program and with a bonus tribute to her southern Ohio roots. For most of us it was the first (and possibly the only) time we had heard bluegrass played on a Stradivarius. It was quite a treat.
Doors open at 7pm for this free family friendly concert. A free will offering will be taken.

STEP UP for St. Jerome

After providing a STEP UP to thousands of students and enduring Cleveland winters for 95 years, the steps of St. Jerome School are being rebuilt to provide the foundation for the next 95 years.

by Adele Markert
If you have driven past St. Jerome School lately, you will have noticed that the front steps to the school are being replaced. 95 years of Cleveland winters have taken their toll. It is a big project but the safety of the children comes first and as the stairs were disassembled we discovered that there was structural deterioration to the support beams for the landing that had not been visible. Repairs are well under way and we hope to have the steps completed for the first day of school.
So many graduating classes, First Communicants, and reunion attendees have stood on those steps to have their picture taken over the years that the steps really are a big part of people's memories of St. Jerome School. Please go to www.stjeromecleveland.org for more pictures, information and to learn how you can help insure a firm footing for future generations.

"A Gift of Song"

Marie Wagner and Agnes Presley congratulate Julia Wallace on a wonderful performance.

by Adele Markert
In celebration of their third wedding anniversary, Lawrence and Julia Wallace gave the people of Cleveland a gift in the form of an original concert. The music was written and sung by Julia with Lawrence accompanying on piano. Julia drew inspiration from the poetry of Charles Simic. Jordan Dryer, Julia's brother who read each poem before they were sung, actually started this project when he gave her Simic's book "The World Doesn't End." Julia was inspired to put the poems to music and met Lawrence when she needed an accompanist to record selections of the project. The two have been inseparable ever since. We hope they will continue to grace St. Jerome with their musical abilities for many years to come.

Concert goes Michele Biondo and Judge Suzan Sweeney relished the opportunity to hear live music performed by the composer right in our own neighborhood.

School year at VASJ begins with Opening Mass

VASJ is blessed to start each school year by gathering as a community and praying together at an Opening Mass. This year's theme, which stemmed from VASJ senior Elizabeth Smith's idea, was "Hope in Christ."

"It was during our Peer Ministry retreat when Ms. Latkovich was reading Romans 8:24-25, and I was thinking that is a really good motive to have and it just stuck with me," Elizabeth says. In further conversation with the rest of the Peer Ministers, it was decided that would be the theme.

Elizabeth welcomed guests to the Opening Mass by reading the verse:

For in this hope we were saved. Now hope that is seen is not hope. For who hopes for what he sees? But if we hope for what we do not see, we wait for it with patience.

"This scripture passage describes how we must have hope in what we do not see," Elizabeth says. "Hope is something that keeps many people going. It helps get people through stressful times. Faith is having hope in Christ. We cannot see Him, or touch Him, but we trust he is there. We trust he is with us. We have faith."

VASJ senior Mary Furlan drew the beautiful illustration that was hung over the stage in the gym. Elizabeth explained the purpose of the boat and lighthouse.

"The light they see gives them hope," Elizabeth says. "It provides them with evidence that they have found what they have been seeking. The light from the lighthouse represents Christ and how we look for him in the darkness of our lives."

Fr. Joe Fortuna of Our Lady of the Lake presided over the Mass. During his Homily, he also spoke about hope and the importance of placing hope in God and wanting what God wants for us.

"We don't always know what that is, but we trust that God knows what is best for us," Fr. Joe says. "I pray for you and for all of us that we may place our hope in Christ."

Four seniors (Elizabeth Smith, Mary Furlan, Eleanor Boru, and Timothy Raddell) were commissioned by Fr. Joe as Extraordinary Ministers of the Eucharist.

Fr. Joe blessed all student leaders and prayed for a successful year and Elizabeth encouraged her peers to carry that hope with them during the school year when high school and personal battles seem overwhelming.

"As we go throughout the rest of the year, never forget to have hope," Elizabeth says. "Hope will carry you through the days where it may seem impossible. Most importantly, have hope in Christ. He is going to guide you through it all."

TOP: Father Joe Fortuna commissions four VASJ seniors as Extraordinary Ministers of the Eucharist. BOTTOM: VASJ students celebrate Opening Mass together.

Community gathers at VASJ for Solar Eclipse viewing party

VASJ's Principal David Csank, Dean of Students Thomas Erzen, and President Bill Cervenik '72, check out the Solar Eclipse in the school's parking lot.

The partial solar eclipse which took place on August 21 was a great kickoff to VASJ's new astronomy class being offered this year. Although school wasn't yet in session, VASJ's Astronomy teacher Lucy Kulbago invited all of her Astronomy students and their families to attend a fun and informative Solar Eclipse event at VASJ.

"The event was a great way to share my excitement for space science and to help people safely view the eclipse," says Kulbago.

The event included astronomy-related activities and snacks, posters, demonstration materials, solar viewing glasses to share, telescopes and other viewing devices. There was even a music playlist with songs related to astronomy and the eclipse.

It turned out to be a great community event for faculty, staff, students, parents, and alums.

"It certainly promoted our charisms of providing an integral, quality education, and a great sense of family spirit," says VASJ religion teacher and Coordinator of Mission Effectiveness Bill Raddell '67.

VASJ is a faith-based educational community that accepts you for who you are and helps you become the person you want to be.

The Flying Scotsman, Peter Quinn, Comes to the Rescue Again.

I needed gutters. I needed gutters bad. I know Peter Quinn the Flying Scotsman is a wizard at kitchen and bath remodels. I have seen firsthand the amazing decks he has built. He and his crew did a 5 star job resurfacing my hard wood floors. But I

Out with the old. needed gutters, so I called Peter. He said, "Aaaa Laddie, it's no a problem." He stopped by a few days later with his trusty measuring tape and notepad. After taking the measurements he gave me a very fair quote. About a week later (he is a busy Hard working Joe Healey doing a 5 star job. man and that is a good sign) , He and his crew showed up on time at 9 am. By 3 pm I had 160 foot of brand new gutters installed, the old gutters had disappeared into the back of the truck, and my yard was spotless. The crew was friendly and professional, and I could not be happier. I highly recommend Peter for all your carpentry and remodel needs....and gutters. Give The Flying Scotsman a call at 440.477.0955. Peter Quinn comes with the Observer Seal of approval.

SPACES' artists shop for Materials at HGR Industrial Surplus in Euclid

by Gina Tabasso
I am always amazed by the seemingly endless inventiveness of artists. They seem to get inspiration from so many different things. Some find excitement in the natural environment, others in a fantastic world. The expressions are equally varied and exciting. In Cleveland and in my experience with SPACES, a non-profit art organization, many find rich inspiration for their artwork in the fading industrial landscape of Cleveland. Often the artists will arrive from foreign lands and other cities and are drawn immediately to the large warehouses and manufacturing centers, and of course the steel mills with their stacks spitting fire over the downtown skyline. When the artists arrive to work at SPACES as part of the residency, HGR Industrial Surplus often comes up as a resource for material and inspiration.
I have been in Cleveland since the early 90s and have helped many artists gather material for their work in lots of places within the industrial areas. I have gone with artists through the steel mills and collected taconite balls and slag. I have gone to old warehouses with photographers looking for unique kinds of space and light. And I have gone to HGR where I have spent hours with artists going up and down the aisles looking at the various machinery and parts that are there for the taking.
I first heard about HGR many years ago when a fellow artist Dana Depew suggested that I go there for some pulleys needed for a project. He said that there were bins filled with everything that I could want. He was not wrong. Dana makes all kinds of intricate constructions from found parts and industrial debris; so, he would know. He works as a curator for the Slavic Village art initiative "Rooms To Let" that draws attention to the abandoned homes in that neighborhood by allowing artists to take over a house and fill it with installations. He also has owned his own gallery and shown many young up-and-coming artists in this region. Dana was a long-time board member of SPACES and helped a whole lot of artists make connections in Cleveland that helped them make

When Jake Beckman came to Cleveland for a residency at SPACES, he had an idea to illustrate the power and beauty of labor. We set him up in a warehouse space not far from The Powerhouse on the west side of downtown where Old School Salvage was located. He immediately set out to find as much material as he could that would allow him to explore the rich interaction between production and labor. He went to HGR and collected rollers and pulleys and some belting, servos. You name it; he gathered it up. For Jake, it was one-stop shopping. Although Jake lives and works in Philly, he returns to Cleveland often and goes to HGR each time to see what he can take back with him. Jake's entire practice has revolved around the industrial landscape.
In the mid-90s, Laila Voss collected tons of material for a project as part of Urban Evidence, an expansive show that was on display at the Cleveland Museum of Art, The Museum of Contemporary Art, and SPACES. Voss, who now is the executive director of Art House Inc. in the near west side of Cleveland and a current board member of SPACES, has been making large-scale multi-media installations throughout her career -- most recently showing at ARTNeo, a museum of Northeast Ohio. At one point, needing some material that would work for a projection screen and to build a replica of a water tower, she found what she needed at HGR, along with a slow-moving motor that would operate a part of the installation. Return trips to HGR are not uncommon for Laila.
Very often, the artists that I work with find that the people of Cleveland are helpful and friendly and willing to give their time and energy to help make a project happen. I love that I can send an artist to HGR and have them come back with big smiles having been inspired by the variety of machine and parts that are available and the openness of the staff to help them locate every odd bit of thing that an artist is looking for. Most often, the artist will return to pick up just one more thing that will help him or her outfit his or her studio or for some crazy-looking thing that will be just perfect for a project.

Healthy News: Tri-C Preventative Care Center Reopens at Metropolitan Campus for Fall

by John Horton

The Preventative Care Center at the Metropolitan Campus of Cuyahoga Community College (Tri-C) will reopen for fall semester on Sept. 5.

The care center provides low-cost health care services to uninsured or underinsured adults while giving Tri-C health career students valuable learning and training opportunities in a clinical setting.

The center will be open 2-5 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays, Sept. 5 through Nov. 16. It is located in room 105 of the Health Careers and Sciences building at Metro Campus, 2900 Community College Ave. in Cleveland.

The center is staffed by students studying to be medical assistants, physical therapy assistants, occupational therapy assistants and dietetic technicians. The students work under the supervision of licensed or certified health care providers.

Services offered at the center include blood pressure readings; glucose and cholesterol screenings; physical therapy and occupational therapy; physical rehabilitation for daily living; pain management; bone density screenings; nutritional coaching; stress management; and exercise and education programs.

No physician referrals are needed for an appointment. To schedule a visit or to find out about special health-related workshops, call 216-987-3555.

The Preventative Care Center at Metro Campus serves as a key part of Tri-C's allied health career programs. Approximately 3,500 appointments have been booked since the service began in 2009.

Seeking Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASAs) For Youth

by Michele Blazian

CASA of Cuyahoga County, a program of Child and Family Advocates of Cuyahoga County, recruits, screens, trains, and supports volunteers who act as independent fact-finders for the court in cases involving child abuse and neglect.

CASAs collect information that helps the judge make the best decision for a safe, caring, and permanent home for children involved in the juvenile justice and child welfare systems. CASAs are everyday citizens who are trained and appointed by the court to advocate for the safety and well-being of children who are victims of abuse or neglect. CASAs are assigned at the earliest stages of a case, and continue to be an advocate for the child through their time in the court system. CASAs work collaboratively with all parties on the case, for the best interests of children. CASAs are only assigned to 1-2 cases at a time and spend approximately 10 hours a month on a case.

The CASA is responsible for the investigation, facilitation, advocacy, and monitoring of the assigned child's case of abuse, neglect, and/or dependency to represent the child's best interests.

Volunteer Requirements: At least 21 years of age; have access to transportation; pass screening; complete training; respect and relate to people of various backgrounds; gather and record factual information accurately; communicate effectively; maintain objectivity/perspective; work within established program policies and procedures and accept supervision from program staff.

Those interested in becoming a CASA, visit www.cfadvocates.org to apply or call 216.443.3377 for more information.

Change of Plans

by Umeikia Whiting

The city of Cleveland has been through ups and downs over so many years. Living the simple life in the city of Cleveland wasn't boring at all. But as I grew up their was a change of plans in my city. Why is their so much senseless murders in Cleveland? It's in my opinion that when Cleveland won the NBA championship it made the city stand together with over 1.4 million people believing that dreams do come true. But it is in that same opinion that once again their was a change of plans. Spiritually you could see the spirits of the people whose lives came to a sudden or tragic end. A few of those spirits were my family and friends. So I speak from experience of what I've seen happened to my beautiful city. I raised all three of my son's in Cleveland. It's been a hard task keeping all three alive by myself. Now I truly thank God for the gifts that he stored in me to help keep my son's safe and off drugs with no guns in their hands.

Free Art Therapy Workshops Offer Hope and Healing

by Laurie Henrichsen

Are you grieving the loss of a love one? Healing Arts Workshops use art therapy to provide grieving people with a creative outlet for their feelings. The free workshops are offered by Hospice of the Western Reserve to any adult in the community who is grieving a loss. Anyone can enroll, whether or not they had a loved one cared for hospice. No art experience is necessary. The workshops are made possible through funding from Cuyahoga Arts & Culture.

will need their mobile phone or another digital camera to take photos and the ability to either email or print them. There is no cost, but space is limited, so advance registration is required.

Fabric & Feelings

Another Healing Arts Workshop, Fabric & Feelings, is a group where participants use fabric techniques such as quilting (sometimes with clothing from loved ones) or photo transfer to create quilts, pillows, dolls and other types of lasting memories. Sewing expertise is not necessary. This is an ongoing group that meets every Thursday, 2 to 4 p.m. and the Elisabeth Severance Prentiss Bereavement Center and new participants are always welcomed.

The workshops are free but advance registration is required. To register or to find out about other free Healing Arts Workshops coming up, call Mollie Borgione 216.486.6544 or email her at mborgione@hospicewr.org.

Words & Snapshots

A Healing Arts Workshop called Words and Snapshots will be held five consecutive Wednesdays: Sept. 6, 13, 20, 27 and Oct. 4, 10 a.m. to 12 noon at the Elisabeth Severance Prentiss Bereavement Center, 300 E. 185th St., Cleveland.

The five-week photography and journaling workshop is ideal for those who would like to express their feelings through digital photography and writing. Participants

Paladar Latin Kitchen Brings Nuevo Latino Vibe to David Simpson Hospice House

Paladar Latin Kitchen brought its festive Latino cuisine to David Simpson Hospice House recently. Hospice patients and their families were treated to a gourmet meal prepared and donated by the restaurant.

by Laurie Henrichsen

Hospice of the Western Reserve welcomed the culinary staff from Paladar Latin Kitchen, 28601 Chagrin Blvd., Woodmere, to David Simpson Hospice House recently for its Meal to Remember program. Chef Charles Sackman and his culinary staff prepared a festive gourmet dinner for patients and their families featuring specialties of the house, including mojo chicken, rice, seasoned black beans, homemade plantain chips with pico de gallo and homemade margarita donuts with frosting. A selection of fine wines was donated by Scoperta Importing, Inc.

of gathering around the table together for conversation and a fine dining experience is an experience most of them have not had for months. It is so meaningful."

Once each month, Meal to Remember brings a different Cleveland-area restaurant to Hospice of the Western Reserve's in-patient care centers (hospice houses) so residents and their families can enjoy a restaurant dining experience together, complete with fine china and linens, wine and live musical entertainment. All of the food, time and talent are donated by the restaurant. Photography, centerpieces and live musical entertainment for the dinners are provided by dedicated hospice volunteers, who also assist the culinary teams with serving and cleanup afterwards.

Interested in having your restaurant participate in the Meal to Remember program? Contact Lori Scotese at lscotese@hospicewr.org or 216-287-8193.

Bob's Corner

by Bob Payne

I've received many, many responses to last month's Bob's Corner. Thank you! For those who are wondering, I've been tentatively diagnosed with myeloproliferative neoplasm. It's a bone marrow disorder. My body is producing too many white blood cells and platelets. There is no cure, but it will most likely be manageable.

Tough times serve a purpose. They tend to crack you open and clarify what is really important. They also show you who your true friends are.

The outpouring of well-wishers has shocked me. I've received visits from friends, emails, texts, telephone calls, books, candy, cards and promises of prayers. It's remarkable to me, and it brings tears to my eyes. From the bottom of my heart, thank you. Your encouragement is greatly appreciated. May your kindness come back to you a hundred times over!

One of our seniors read the article about my illness, and was also deeply touched. As I passed through the dining room, she called me over. She told me that what I need is a Momma's hug. "A Momma's hug," she said, "is when Momma hugs and rocks you side to side." She explained that even hurt little children will settle down and their hurting is taken away when they get a Momma's hug. She then proceeded to hug me tight in front of everyone, rocking me side to side.

Now, I don't know if that hug and all of the well wishes will affect my blood counts (we will see later this month), but I can tell you that there is truly something sacred about being there when someone is in need.

We all experience ups and downs. We all have times when we feel strong, and times when we feel weak. Perhaps the most difficult times are when we feel we have no control over things. How comforting it is to have others who genuinely care about what you are going through.

Please, do not underestimate the power you have to help someone else. The slightest gesture of caring can be significant to someone having difficulty in their journey.

During your time of need, I sincerely hope that all of you have people who care. And, may you all be recipients of a Momma's hug.
